BOCHSANWASI SHRI AKSHAR
PURUSHOTTAM
SWAMINARAYAN SANSTHA (BAPS)

The BAPS is a global socio-spiritual organisation committed to the moral and spiritual uplift of mankind. It was established in 1907CE by Brahmaśwarup Shastriji Maharaj in consonance with the Vedic teachings propagated by Bhagwan Swaminarayan (1781–1830CE).

The Sanstha's global network of 8,100 Satsang centres (comprising of mandirs, children's forums, youth forums, women's forums and character-building centres) are perennial sources of moral, social, cultural and spiritual activities. The energies of the BAPS volunteer corps of 45,000 youths and 680 sadhus are channelised towards a variety of philanthropic activities that include services in times of natural calamities, water conservation and harvesting projects, primary schools, students hostels, hospitals, diagnostic camps, anti-addiction drives, AIDS-awareness and environment-awareness programmes, tribal upliftment and literacy campaigns.

The BAPS is an NGO in Consultative Status with the Economic and Social Council of the United Nations. Its world renowned cultural and spiritual complexes like Akshardham and London mandir are some of its epoch-making contributions to society.

The BAPS, under the inspiration and guidance of Pramukh Swami Maharaj, has earned an endearing and unique place in the hearts of millions throughout the world.

His Divine Holiness Pramukh Swami Maharaj

Bhagwān Swāminārāyan propagated the pristine Bhakti tradition on earth. He advocated that without attaining the brahmarup state one cannot become eligible to offer supreme devotion to Parabrahma.

Bhagwān Swāminārāyan accepted many rituals and traditions from the Pañcarātra sāstras. For example, in understanding God's form through the four sāstras He spoke about the glory of the Pañcarātra sāstras. This catalogue has been prepared by sadhus who have done research on the Pañcarātra.

This catalogue on the Pañcarātra sāstra has been dedicated to Brahmaswarup Shāstriji Mahārāj, who spread the mission of Bhagwān Swāminārāyan and established the true upasana advocated by Him throughout the world.

On reading this catalogue all scholars will be introduced to the Pañcarātra Āgamas and the principles advocated by Bhagwān Swāminārāyan and be inspired on the path of Bhakti.

I pray that Mahārāj, Swāmi, Shāstriji Mahārāj and Yogiji Mahārāj shower their blessings on the two sadhus (Sadhu Parampurushdas and Sadhu Shruti-prakashdas) who have compiled this catalogue.

Publisher's Note

Bhagwan Swaminarayan incarnated on earth (1781–1830 CE) and promoted the path of dharma together with bhakti. He established Ekantik Dharma and repeatedly advocated the principle that God is Sākār i.e. has a form – a principle that is absolutely essential on the path of devotion. Describing His firm belief in this principle that God is Sākār, Bhagwan Swaminarayan says in Vachanamrut Gadhada II-39, “I have a very strong conviction that God possesses a form. That is, Shri Krishna Vāsudev resides in His Akshardhām – which is full of chaitanya and full of divine light – possessing an eternal and definite form. God, thus possessing a form, is also the all-doer, since that which is formless can accomplish nothing. In fact, so firm is My conviction that God possesses a form that even though I have read and heard many Vedānta scriptures, My conviction has not been dislodged.”

In order to consolidate this belief firmly in His devotees, Bhagwan Swaminarayan instructs them in Vachanamrut Loya-6 only to read scriptures which describe God as being Sākār. He categorically forbids them to read or even listen to scriptures which describe God as Nirākār. Expounding on this important principle, He has talked about the Pāñcrātra scriptures. In Vachanamrut Vartal-2, He stresses that the Pāñcrātra scriptures are more comprehensive in their description of God's nature as Sākār than the Sankhya, Yoga or Vedanta scriptures.

Following totally the principles of Bhagwan Swaminarayan, Pramukh Swami Maharaj also consolidates this belief in his disciples and inspires them on the path of devotion and ultimate salvation. He also encourages scholars to study and teach those scriptures which endorse this principle. It is with his blessings that Pujya Parampurush Swami has studied the Pāñcrātra scriptures.

It was during his period of study that the vast body of the Pāñcrātra Samhitās became apparent and subsequently his efforts have produced this unique catalogue of Pāñcrātra Samhitā.

Using available technology, the Samhitas have been catalogued to reflect their published, unpublished or incomplete status. The compiled data has also been presented in graphic form and with appendices. The unique features of this catalogue have been mentioned in the preface by Pujya Shrutiprakash Swami and in the foreword by the renowned scholar K.K.A. Venkatacharya.

Swaminarayan Aksharpith is privileged to publish this well-researched thesis.

With great effort, Pujya Parampurush Swami and Pujya Shrutiprakash Swami have added an invaluable work to the world of Indian Sanskrit Literature and have enhanced the prestige of all Vaishnav Āgamas. We are grateful and indebted to both sadhus. We pray to Bhagwan Swaminarayan and guruhari Pramukh Swami Maharaj to bless them so they continue to produce such invaluable works.

In this text, diacritic marks have been used to facilitate the pronunciation of Sanskrit words like names of saṁhitās and other scriptures, scholars, institutions, etc. However, they have not been used for names and other words that are not written in that manner, e.g. Venkatacharya, shlokas, Krishnamacharya, etc.

• We have retained the diacritic marks in names of editors, translators, etc. that have been used by the publishers of those volumes and abstained from them where the publishers have not used the diacritic convention.

The diacritic convention has not been absolutely adhered to in the publisher's note & Introduction in English.

Generally the words such as गंगा (Gangā), संख्या (Saṅkhyā) मंजरी (Mañjarī) etc. are used in Gujarati and regional languages with the anuswār (nasal) sound. In Sanskrit however, with परसवर्ण (Parasavarṇa) there are different pronunciations. An attempt has been made to place the appropriate consonant according to the pronunciation e.g. in the word संख्या (saṅkhyā) ङ् is employed instead of the anuswār (nasal) sound. In the transliterated word, therefore, ṅ/Ñ is used for ङ्. In the group of words कौच संहिता (Crauñca saṁhitā), the anuswār (nasal) sound is, ञ, therefore, ñ/Ñ is used for ञ. And in the word पुंडरीकाक्ष (Puṇḍarikākṣa), the anuswār (nasal) sound is ण, therefore, ṇ/Ñ is used for ण.

FOREWORD

India's glorious spiritual wisdom has been encapsulated in the Sanskrit language. Renowned Indian and foreign scholars have written at great length on the various facets of the Sanskrit language. They have profusely reflected and written on the Vedās, Upaniṣadas, Indian history, literature and drama. Unfortunately the Vaiṣṇava Āgamas have only a scant and almost negligible status. The reason for this sad state of affairs is not the scarcity of literature on Vaiṣṇava Āgamas, but its lack of information with the Indian and foreign scholars. Surprisingly, even the Vaiṣṇava Sampradāyas have very limited information on Vaiṣṇava Āgamas related to Pāñcarātra.

In this situation, this catalogue of the Pāñcrātra Saṁhitā is a very valuable contribution to the literature on Pāñcrātra Āgamas. Since its inception 200 years ago, the Swāminārāyaṇa Sampradāya is closely linked with the Vaiṣṇava Sampradāya.

Bhagwan Swāminārāyaṇa Himself has proclaimed 'मत् विशिष्टाद्वैतं मे' and has, thereby expressed His preference for 'विशिष्टाद्वैतम्' and an established a unique Brahma-Parabrahma Viśiṣṭādvaīta Philosophy. The Pāñcrātra Āgamas have complete acceptability and popularity with the Rāmānuja Sampradāya. It is, therefore, appropriate and commendable that, the Swāminārāyaṇa Sampradāya is rendering its invaluable services to the propagation of Pāñcarātra Āgamas.

When I was appointed as the Director of 'AARSH', I cherished a hope that this research institute would certainly contribute in the spread of the message of Pāñcarātra Āgamas. I had inspired Sadhu Parampurushdas to take up 'Pāñcarātrarakṣā Ālochanātmakam Adhyayanam' (a study on Pāñcarātrarakṣā). I am indeed very happy that my long cherished desire has now been fulfilled.

Scholars have mainly acknowledged Śaiva-Śākta Āgama as Āgamas, because till date a large volume of only that Āgama has come to light. The publication of this catalogue of 460 saṁhitās will therefore, give an idea about the wide range of Pāñcarātra Āgama literature.

The record of published and unpublished Pāñcrātra Saṁhitās in this catalogue are also very important. It will be a surprise for a large number of scholars that since the last 80 to 90 years, various Pāñcarātra Saṁhitās have been published with an English translation and in the regional scripts like Telugu, etc.

The publication of this valuable catalogue in English will be useful for foreign scholars. The remarks in Sanskrit, along with its English version, will be of great help to Indian scholars.

The information given about each saṁhitā includes the number of shlokas and ādhyayas it has, the number of other saṁhitās wherein its name is given; and its serial number in the catalogues of Schrader and subsequent three scholars. The information on the published saṁhitās includes all the relevant details of the publication. And for the unpublished saṁhitās, their total number, location and present condition are given.

After the saṁhitās were arranged in historical order, they were then scrutinised and evaluated. Though the Pāñcarātra literature is the word of God and hence entirely sacred and divine, the effort to appraise them for academic purposes is praiseworthy. Equally praiseworthy is the concept of knowing the period of the Saṁhitā with the numerals mentioned against the historical order.

The extensive and well written introduction to the catalogue, provided in Sanskrit and English will provide as a guideline for all English and Sanskrit Pāñcarātra scholars. The point highlighted about the contribution, no matter how small, by Vaiṣṇava Ācāryas on the subject of Pāñcarātra is also very appreciative.

I welcome the editor's statement that there is still a lot of scope for research in this subject. Nevertheless the editor's research, will unquestionably, be immensely useful to the scholars of the Pāñcarātra Āgamas. It is my earnest prayer to Lord Śrīmann Nārāyaṇa that 'AARSH' flourishes and continues to bring out such valuable publications.

Introduction

AN EVALUATION OF INDIAN CULTURE

एतद्देशप्रसूतस्य सकाशादग्रजन्मनः । स्वं स्वं चरित्रं शिक्षेरन् पृथिव्यां सर्वमानवाः ॥

All the people of this earth should examine their own lives in accordance with the lives of the great souls of this land (India).

Manu Smṛiti: 2.20

Many millennia ago, Bhagwān Manu called out to the whole of humanity with this gracious appeal. It was through such clarion calls that the eminent philosophers and sages of India inspired an awakening of morality and integrity that was ushered among the people of the world. Even today, ancient Vedic expressions such as 'यत् विश्वं भवत्येकनीडम् – The whole world is one nest' still resound in the minds of the world's greatest thinkers. But these lofty ideals of the noble people of India were not merely phrases of elegant and passive verbiage; they were applied principles that were culled from the lives of great men and which went on to produce an even greater nation.

This is the India of Rām; the Rām who happily renounced his right to the throne on the single command of his father; the Rām who renounced even his wife on the word of a meagre washerman. This is the India of Bharat, the ideal brother, who did not accept the kingdom he had rightfully attained, but instead chose to live a life of austerity. This is the India of Lakshman, the ideal celibate, who while sojourning in the lone forests with Rām and Sitā, never once even looked upon his sister-in-law in the face. This is the India of Sitā, the ideal wife, who stood by her husband in good times and bad.

This is the India of Shravan, the devout child who sat his frail and blind parents in a carrier upon his shoulders, and set off around India – barefooted – to fulfill their wish of a pilgrimage. This is the India of Nachiketā, the dynamic youth who challenged even Yam, the Lord of Death, to teach him the wisdom of immortality. This is the India of Ekalavya, the expert-archer and ideal disciple who, without a moment's hesitation, offered the thumb of his right hand upon his master's command – forever banishing his dream of becoming the finest archer in the land. In essence, this is the India of hundreds of thousands of such noble people – men and women, young and old, kings and sages – all living a life of renunciation, austerities, restraint, charity, forbearance, tolerance, brotherhood and harmony. They, the people of India, were the embodiment of all the good She stands for even today.

In the recently concluded 20th century, a frail merchant's son fearlessly took a stance against injustice in India. Wearing a mere dhoti, and with love, non-violence and civil disobedience as his only weapons, he changed the course of history by uprooting the 150 year-old British Empire from the face of India. Mohandas K. Gandhi, accordingly, was honoured by the world with the title 'Mahatma', and came to be regarded by the people of India as the 'Father of our Nation'. His accomplishments must also include the revolutionaries he inspired in other countries around the world to strive for justice.

Another great soul of this very India recently reminded the Western world once again of the glorious culture and heritage of India – His Divine Holiness Pramukh Swāmi Mahārāj. By building the first traditional Mandir outside of India in the heart of London, His Holiness has established Indian Culture in the UK so profoundly, generations to come will reap and savour a part of India, and learn to be proud of their country. Swāmishri's very life represents the nobility, spirituality, and peace-loving nature of India as a whole. Perhaps that is why so many seek his guidance and counselling on the daily challenges of life. He gives simple, profound solutions based on the scriptures of India and his vast treasure of experience. Indeed, Swāmishri's pure and selfless life itself generates the faith that the world can be a better place, that the harrowing crises confronting the people of today can be eliminated, and the future can be peaceful, purposeful and prosperous – if only we can strive to imbibe the ideals preached to us by Mother India.

One principle taught by the scriptures of India is 'वसुधैव कुटुम्बकम् - the Whole World is One Family'. If each and every citizen of the world could live by this, would not the need of nations to amass massive arsenals radically be reduced? Would not warring and terrorising and killing and hurting promptly take leave? Would not peace and harmony be given a fairer chance to reign? Indian Culture has so much to teach. And We, the world, have so much to learn.

INDIAN SCRIPTURES: THE NURTURERS OF CULTURE

The lofty ideals that have nursed and nurtured Indian Culture have been passed down to us by the great rishis and sages of the past. These spiritual giants – through their austerities and acumen, wisdom and vigilance, hindsight, foresight and insight – realised the eternal truths from God Himself. They then transmitted these truths to the people at large, which were later meticulously inscribed in the form of scriptures.

It is these scriptures of India that have helped the Culture survive and thrive up to this day. Undeniably, India without its scriptures just cannot be imagined; they and the great men who formed them or continue to transmit their message are the heart of Indian Culture. Wise men compose scriptures from the power of their spirituality, and uplift the world according to those scriptures. In relation, the very same scriptures point to such wise men for the upliftment of the world.

In this way, the contribution of Indian scriptures and Indian Culture for the welfare of our modern and progressive society seems imperative to say the least.

'आत्मनः प्रतिकूलानि न परेषां समातरेत्' – Do not do to others what one dislikes done to oneself.'

If only this one adage had been received by the tyrants and despots of the past, then surely the tragic death of innocent millions could have been avoided.

'मा गृधः कस्यस्विद् धनम्' Do not covet what belongs to others'. If only this one phrase of the Upanishads had been accepted by power-hungry and blood-thirsty national leaders, then surely the continuously increasing expenditure on 'defense' and armament would be saved.

'सङ्गच्छध्वं संवदध्वं सं वो मनांसि जानताम्' May we progress together; May we be harmonious together.' If only this one Vedic message can be accepted by the few extremist religious and political leaders of our world, then surely we can be saved from the carnage and horror of terrorism.

In conclusion, one can faithfully affirm, Indian Culture can serve in providing the most striking solutions to today's most severe problems. And at the very foundations of this most noble and elevating of cultures lie its great enlightening scriptures.

Two traditions of Indian scriptures have been developing in parallel since ancient times. One is of the Vedas, i.e. the Nigam Tradition, and the second is the Āgama Tradition.

NIGAM TRADITION

'Nigam' refers to scriptures based on the four Vedas – the Rig Veda, Sām Veda, Yajur Veda and Atharva Veda – and the Vedic Samhitās. As an extension of the Vedic Samhitās, many forms of other scriptures also flourished. Namely: the Brāhmins – such as the Shatapath Brāhman; the Shrotra Sutras composed by Kātyāyan and others – which prescribe the duties of householders; the Āranyaks – such as the Bruhadāranyak; the Upanishads – such as the Chāndogya Upanishad; the Upvedas – such as Dhanurveda and Āyurveda; the Vedangas – i.e. the scriptures of Jyotish, Vyākaran, Nirukta, Shikshā, Chhand and Kalpa; the scriptures of the various schools of philosophy, i.e. Nyāya, Vaisheshik, Sāṅkhya, Yoga, Purva-Mimāṃsā and Uttar-Mimāṃsā; the Smrutis based on the Vedas – such as the Yāgnavalkya Smruti; the Purāns – serving as the essence of the Vedas; and finally the Itihās scriptures – the Mahābhārat and Rāmāyan. This entire body of literature promotes the Nigam or Vedic Tradition.

Even today, whatever morality that is prevalent in society can be traced to this Vedic literature. Consider the illiterate and unsophisticated village people who may never have even seen (let alone read) the Vedas, yet they too can be seen to religiously adhere to values propounded by the Vedas. One cannot but appreciate the significant influence of Vedic literature that has permeated throughout society touching people from every walk of life, at every stratum.

ĀGAMA TRADITION

In much the same way as the Vedic Tradition, the Āgama Tradition has also been equally successful in preserving values across time, since both traditions have flourished to the same extent.

The word 'Āgama' does refer to the Vedas on rare occasions, but primarily, the Āgamas refer to the body of scriptures that detail the framework of a fellowship, the manner of worship therein, customs for festivals, methods of initiation, etc.

Several scholars have attempted to characterise the Āgamas in their own ways:

1. Āchārya Saryuprasād Dvivedi notes in his 'Āgama-rahasya' (Purvārdh p2):

‘आगतं शिववक्त्रेभ्यो, गतञ्च गिरिजाश्रुतौ । मतं श्रीवासुदेवस्य तस्मादागम उच्यते ॥

“The articulator of the Āgamas is Shivji, Pārvatiji is the listener, and the principle is of Vāsudev.’

2. Vāchaspati Mishra suggests: ‘आगच्छन्ति बुद्धिमारोहन्ति यस्माद् अभ्युदयनिःश्रेयसोपायाः स आगमः ’
“That is an Āgama from which one attains, i.e. understands, the means of liberation.”

3. The Vārāhi Tantra lists seven topics covered by an Āgama:
- i. Creation – A description of the creation and sustenance of the world
 - ii. Destruction – A description of the complete destruction of the world
 - iii. Worship – A description of the manner of worship of the deities
 - iv. Spiritual Endeavours – A description of various endeavours and their fruits
 - v. Purashcharan – A description of mantras and their chanting
 - vi. Actions – A description of the six types of actions
 - vii. Meditation – A description of the four types of meditation

Since not all Āgamas strictly follow these outlines, the generally accepted definition of an Āgama is 'a scripture that details the customs and traditions of a fellowship'

DIFFERENT CATEGORIES OF ĀGAMAS & THEIR SALIENT FEATURES

The Bauddh, Jain, Shaiv, Shākt and Vaishnav Sampradāyas are all based on the Āgama Tradition. The Parāshar Mādhyāya also mentions the Saur, Vaināyak and Skānd Āgamas. Āgamic literature is also known as Tāntrik literature, whose message has reached far and wide – past even India to China, Tibet, Sri Lanka, etc.

The various Āgamas of the Āgama Tradition can be bifurcated into two categories – Vedic and non-Vedic.

NON-VEDIC ĀGAMAS

The non-Vedic Āgamas would include the Bauddh and Jain Āgamas, since they clearly differ in ideology from the Vedas – if not outrightly oppose them. Contradictory to their own claims of not having accepted any ideas from the Vedas, similarities from the Vedic Tradition have indeed been found in these non-Vedic scriptures.

The Āgamas of the Bauddh School are found prominently in the Vrajyān Sampradāya. There are in total about 72 Āgamas in this Sampradāya – including the Pramod Mahāyug, Paramārth Sevā, Pindikram, Āryamañjushri, Samputodbhav, etc. Of these, several have been translated into Chinese and Tibetan. Some rituals and traditions found in the Bauddh Tantras are exactly the same as those found in the Vedic Tantras.

According to Jain Tradition, the Jain Tantras (or the Mantra literature) were formulated between the 3rd and 11th centuries CE. Jain Tantras and Jain ideology can be found mentioned in the Vidyānupravāḍ scripture. The Tantra Āgamas have been propagated by Tāntriks such as Mānadevsuri, (Laghushānti Mantra) Vādi Vetālasuri, (Bruhat Shānti Mantra) Siddhasen Diwākar, et al. Devis such as Saraswati, Ambikā, Kuberā, Padmāvati, Siddhārthikā, etc. have also been mentioned, considered to be consorts of the Tirthankars.

VEDIC ĀGAMAS

The Vedic Āgamas include the Shaiv, Shākt, Saur, Gānpatya and the Skānd Āgamas. Whether in fact to consider these Āgamas as Vedic or not has been debated for centuries, because unlike the Upanishads and the scriptures of the Purva and Uttar Mimānsās, the former have not been composed with a strong backing of the Vedas. Nevertheless, these Āgamas should be considered Vedic since they do mention Vedic mantras and Vedic deities such as Vishnu, Nārāyan and Rudra.

Scriptures that challenge the authority of the Vedas – such as the Shloka-vārtik and Tantra-vārtik scriptures of the school of Kumāril Bhatt, and later scriptures such as Adhvar-mimānsā-kutuhāl-vrutti – do not accept the Āgamas as Vedic. Nor does Shankarāchārya accept the Shaiv, Shākta and Vaishnav Āgamas as Vedic. In his commentary upon the 'Utpattayasambhavādhikaran' (2.2.42-45) of the Brahma Sutras, Shankarāchārya denounces the Pañcharātra Sampradāya as contradictory to Vedic principles – just as the Bauddh and Jain Sampradāyas are. He has also given the same treatment to the Shaiv and Shākta Sampradāyas in his discussion of the 'Patyadhikaran' aphorisms (2.2.37-41).

In contrast, in their respective scriptures, Nyāya-manjari and Āgama-prāmānya, Jayant Bhatt (9th century CE) and Yāmunāchārya (10th century CE) have made an impressive effort to affirm these Āgamas as Vedic. Furthermore, Rāmānujāchārya's ideology as projected in the 'Utpattayasambhavādhikaran' discussion of the Brahma Sutras plays a major role in the protection and acceptance of the Āgamas as Vedic.

Within the Shaiv Āgamas, variations have been noted due to differences of sampradāyas, deities and traditions. From a sampradāya viewpoint, Kāpāl, Kālāmukh, Pāshupat and Shaiv are the different categories that have been noted. Another form of distinction is due to the Tantras – the ten Shaiv Āgamas and the 18 Rudra Āgamas.

The following are also methods of distinguishing various differences:

- According to the Shri Kanthi Samhitā, 8 'ashtaks' or groups (i.e. 64 texts) have become popularly known as the Bhairav Āgama
- According to the Āgama-tattva-villās, there are 64 Āgamas
- According to the Nihshvās Samhitā found in the Nepal Darbar Library, there are five subtle categories
- According to the Koulamārg, i.e. the Samayāchār, there are five divisions – the Shubhāgam-panchak
- According to the Shri Vidyā Sampradāya, there are the three categories of Kādi, Hādi and Kahādi
- Tāntric Upanishads considered Shaiv Upanishads
- Other distinctions are due to Yāmal and Sār scriptures

Similarly in the Shākta Āgamas, there are two major distinctions due to the two different sampradāyas prevalent – the Dakshināchār and the Vāmāchār. Just as in the Shaiv Āgamas, many distinctions are noticeable within the Shākta Āgamas as well. Among the entire body of Āgama and Tantra scriptures, the Shaiv and Shākta Āgamas occupy the greatest volume. Indeed, these Tantra scriptures pose valuable prospects for deeper research, and in that respect, Pandit Gopināth Kavirāj has made a commendable effort in his 'Tāntrik Sāhitya'.

The presence of the Saur, Skānd, and Gānpatya Āgamas is hard to discern since they do not exist today as distinct sampradāyas.

THE VAIKHANAS ĀGAMAS IN THE VAISHNAV ĀGAMAS

In comparison to other scriptures, the Āgama and Tantra scriptures are relatively less well known. Perhaps only the Bauddh, Shaiv and Shākta Tantras have enjoyed widespread popularity among Tāntric enthusiasts. On the whole, the Vaishnav Tantras are not so popular, of which the Vaikhānas Āgamas are hardly known at all.

In the Vaikhānas-vijay, Vaikhānas Muni (also known as Vikhanas Muni) has been noted as the formulator of the Vaikhānas scriptures and referred to as Brahmā. However in the Taitiriyāranyka, he is said to be created from Brahmā's nails (1.23). He has also been mentioned as Nārāyan in Brugu-prokta-kriyādhikār. The Vaikhānas-vijay also mentions that Vikhānas Rishi attained the Vaikhānas Sutras from Vishnu. (Many scholars have come to believe that the Taitirya Sutras are synonymous with the Vaikhānas Sutras¹.) Vaikhānas Rishi is said to have then passed on this knowledge to his four disciples: Atri, Brugu, Kashyap and Marichi. The literature known as the Vaikhānas Āgamas is an extension of this knowledge.

In the Vimānārchandikār, Marichi is identified as having alone composed 184,000 'scriptures' in his eight samhitās – the Jay Samhitā, Sagnā Samhitā, Vir Samhitā, Ānand Samhitā, Vijay Samhitā, Vijit Samhitā, and Vimal Samhitā. It seems highly likely here that the term 'shāstra' (i.e. scripture) may have been used instead of 'shloka' (i.e. verse).

The introduction to the Vaikhānas Āgama Kosh (p17-18) enumerates the Vaishnav Āgama works as:

- 4 Tantras by Atri Rishi – the Purva Tantra, Ātreya Tantra, Vishnu Tantra and Uttar Tantra
- 3 Tantras by Kashyap Rishi – Satya Kānd, Tark Kānd, and Gnān Kānd
- 13 Tantras by Brugu Rishi – Khil, Purā Tantra, Vāsādhikār, Chitrādhikār, Mānādhikār, Kriyādhikār, Archādhikār, Yagnādhikār, Varnādhikār, Prakirnādhikār, Pratigruhyādhikār, Niruktādhikār, and Khilādhikār

Hence, including the eight Samhitās by Marichi, a total of 28 scriptures are considered the predominant scriptures of the Vaishnav Āgamas.

According to another method of enumeration:

- 7 Samhitās by Angirā Rishi – Anant Samhitā, Para Samhitā, Gnān Samhitā, Jay Samhitā, Vir Samhitā, Satya Samhitā, and Gnān Samhitā (?)
- 5 Tantras by Kashyap Rishi – Shāntān Kānd, Kashyap Kānd, Satya Kānd, Tark Kānd and Gnān Kand
- 8 Tantras by Brugu Rishi – Khil, Khilādhikār, Purā Tantra, Vāsādhikār, Chitrādhikār, Kriyādhikār, Mānādhikār, and Prātigrahādhikār
- 4 Tantras by Atri Rishi – Pādma Tantra, Uttar Tantra, Vishnu Tantra, and Ātreya Tantra

Thus, a total of 24 scriptures have been noted.

However, of the two counts, the former (of 28) is considered more authentic.

It is a matter of great distress that of all the Samhitās. Vaikhānas Āgamas, only ten are available today – namely:

- Samurtārchanādhikār by Atri Rishi
- Gnān Kānd by Kashyap Rishi

1. Lakshmi Tantra Darshan: p15-16 by Dr. Kāliya Ashekumar; Vaishnav Pānchāratra Katipaya Paksh: p5-7 by Dr. Rampyare Mishra

- Archanādhikār, Kriyādhikār, Khilādhikār, Niruktādhikār, Prakirṇādhikār, Yagnādhikār, and Vāsādhikār by Brugu
- Vimanārchan Kalp by Marichi

Of these ten, only Atri Rishi's Samurīārchanādhikār, Kashyap Rishi's Gnān Kānd, Bhṛgu Rishi's Kriyādhikār and Khilādhikār have been published in Devnagari; Bhṛgu Rishi's Prakirṇādhikār and Yagnādhikār have been published in Telugu; and Marichi Rishi's Vimanārchan Kalp has been published in Devnagari as well as Telugu. Only manuscripts of the other three are available. In this respect, the Vaikhānas Āgamas are not very readily available.

Vaishnav temples of the Vaikhānas Āgamas are predominately found in Tamil Nadu and Andhra Pradesh. The ritual offerings to Lord Shrinivās in the world renowned Tirupati Temple are also performed according to these Āgamas. The glory of the Vaishnav Āgamas can also be found in the closely associated Pañcharātra Āgamas – which will be discussed in greater detail later.

The Vaikhānas Āgamas are predominantly in Vedic mantra form. In the code of rites and rituals, significant priority has been given to yagnas and the mantra tradition. Āgama mantras are scarce, on the other hand, the initial Pañcharātra Samhitās have made minimal use of Vedic mantras. Later, both the Vedic mantras and the Āgama mantras have been used to the same extent. Apart from several minor differences, this is the major difference between the two branches of Āgamas – besides the obvious difference of the prominent deities, Vāsudev and Vishnu.

Another significant difference between the two arrangements is the qualifications necessary for the worship of God. According to the Vaikhānas Āgamas, no other Brahmin except those of the Vaikhānas lineage have the right to perform these rituals. And according to the Pañcharātra Āgamas, only Brahmins of the Shāndilya, Aupagāyan, Manujyāyan, Kaushik and Bhārdvāj lineages i.e. those who are considered Pañcharātra followers from birth, have the right to perform the rituals in temples. With the passing of time, though, other initiated Brahmins of the Pañcharātra Sampradāya were allowed to perform the ritual offerings at most temples except Sri Rangam, Melukote and Vishnukanchi.

Of the Vaishnav āchāryas, Yāmunāchārya and Vedant Deshik have in their Āgama-prāmānya and Pancharatra-rakshā respectively, accepted both Āgamas Traditions as being on par. Even among Vaishnavs today, both the temples of Tirupati (where the rituals are as per the Vaikhānas Āgamas) and Shrirangshetra (where the rituals are as per the Pañcharātra Āgamas) are respected with equal reverence and faith. And both sampradāyas are also known as the Bhāgwat or Sātvat Sampradāyas.

AN INTRODUCTION TO THE PAÑCHARĀTRA SAMPRADĀYA

The Pañcharātra is very often associated with the popular Sanskrit stories entitled 'Panchtantra'. Many acquainted with Sanskrit literature also associate the Pañcharātra Āgamas with the well known 'Pancharātra' play composed by Bhās. One of Pañcharātra Samhitās known as Gnānāmṛtsār Samhitā, also known as Nārad Pañcharātra, has earned fame amongst the Vaishnav Sampradāyas. Hence for many years, the Vaishnavs have recognized the Gnānāmṛtsār Samhitā i.e. the Nārad Pañcharātra as the Pañcharātra scripture. Especially since 1921 when the English and Hindi translations of the Gnānāmṛtsār Samhitā were popularized under the title of 'Nārad Pancharātra', it has commonly been accepted as the sole Pañcharātra Āgama. Consequently, conventional Sanskrit scholars as well as the public at large have firmly come to believe that the very roots of the Vaishnav Sampradāya are found in the Nārad Pañcharātra alone, and that there can be no other scripture by the name of Nārad Pañcharātra, or any other Pañcharātra scriptures for that matter.

It remains a fact that perhaps only a handful of intellectuals hold any substantially sound knowledge of the Pañcharātra. In the light of these grave misconceptions, it becomes imperative that we thoroughly investigate the Pañcharātra School through various perspectives. Firstly, we will attempt to understand the Pañcharātra Sampradāya; and thereafter study its literature.

First and foremost, we shall appreciate the etymology of the term 'Pancharātra' in context with the Āgamas of the Pañcharātra Sampradāya.

ETYMOLOGY OF 'PANCHARĀTRA'

Several 20th century scholars have made praiseworthy attempts to define the word 'Pañcharātra', namely: Otto Schrader of Germany (1916), J.A. Butanin (1962), V. Raghavan (1965), P.P. Apte (1972), et al. Unfortunately, none of these scholars have managed to arrive at a commonly accepted definite definition. Dr. Rampyare Mishra (1994) has attempted to provide a definition based on the rules of Grammar and mantras found in the Rig Veda. He explains: Pāncha = entire + Rātra = upāsana (mode of worship) = Mode of worship of the whole of Mankind.² This, however, does not seem to tally precisely with the Pañcharātra since the scripture has actually also come to be popularly known as the 'Ekāyana Veda' – wherein only the one Supreme Reality is revealed as the way to liberation. Thus, not being satisfied with these definitions derived linguistically or by way of scriptural references, one resorts to the definitions provided by the Pañcharātra Samhitās.

The Pañcharātra Samhitās provide three types of definitions. Definitions that:

- a) reveal the Pañcharātra as superior in relation to other scriptures
- b) reveal the era in which the Pañcharātra teachings were acquired
- c) have a philosophical interpretation

A) DEFINITIONS REVEALING THE SUPERIORITY OF THE PAÑCHARĀTRA

1. That before which the knowledge of the Purānas, Vedas, Vedānta, Sāṅkhya and Yoga is all assimilated – just as night is assimilated by the dawn of the sun – is the Pañcharātra .
Paushkar Samhitā: 38.307-8
2. That by which alone one can attain the bliss of ātmā and Paramātmā otherwise attainable by the combined study of the Sāṅkhya, Yoga, Shaiva, Veda and Āranyaka scriptures – which are comparable to the night – is the Pañcharātra .

Shāṅḍilya Samhitā: 1.2.75-76

2. Vaishnav Panchāratra Kātipaya Paksh: p68-72 by Dr. Rampyare Mishra

3. That before which the Buaddha, Jain, Sāṅkhya and Yoga scriptures are all assimilated – just as the moon and the stars, though as vast as the night itself, are assimilated by the sun – is the Pañcharātra . Or that by which these five set of scriptures attain their 'fiveness', i.e. meet their death is the Pañcharātra .

Pādma Samhitā, Gnanapād: 1.47-53 & 72-73

B) DEFINITIONS REVEALING THE DURATION OF THE PAÑCHARĀTRA TEACHINGS

1. In the era of Satyuga, Lord Keshav imparted his teachings to five people in five nights: to Ananta (Shesh Nag) in the first night; to Garudji in the second night; to Vishwakṣen in the third night, to Brahmāji in the fourth night; and to Rudra in the fifth night. This is the teachings of the Pañcharātra , in five lakh verses.

Vihagendra Samhitā: 1 p7

2. The five weapons of Sudarshan, etc. manifested as the five rishis – Shāṅdilya, Aupagāyan, Maunjāyan, Kaushik and Bhāradvāj. The teachings were imparted to each of these five rishis individually over five nights. Thus the name Pañcharātra .

Ishwar Samhitā: 2.518-532

3. In the Era of Satyuga, a demon by the name of Kanvasomak captured the Vedas. The deities and rishis prayed to God for the protection of the Vedas. God manifested before them and graced them with an eight-syllable mantra. With the power of this mantra, the deities vanquished the demons. Thereafter, the deities and the rishis performed religious rites to propitiate God for five nights. Due to the rites, they were blessed with the knowledge of the Pañcharātra . During the five nights, the first to perform the rites was Brahmāji – thus Brahmārātra; second was Shivāji – thus Shivarātra; third was Indra – thus Indrarātra; fourth was Nag – thus Nagrātra; and fifth were the rishis – thus Rishirātra.

Bhāradvāj Samhitā (Handwritten Manuscript): Chapter 2

C) DEFINITIONS WITH PHILOSOPHICAL INTERPRETATIONS

1. 'Rātra' i.e. night symbolizes ignorance. 'Panch' means the sun – the destroyer of the night. Thus, the Pañcharātra scripture is an illustrious sun that destroys ignorance in the form of the night.

Shri Prasna Samhitā: 2.40

2. Like the night, the five entities of Earth, Water, Light, Air and Space make all living beings insentient. The scripture that saves them from these five entities and from which they can attain the light of wisdom is the Pañcharātra .

Parama Samhitā: 1.39-41

3. Humans that have accepted the five entities are called 'pancharā'. The scripture that protects them – i.e. performs their 'trāna' – is the Pañcharātra.

Vishwāmitra Samhitā: 2.3.5

4. 'Rātra' means knowledge. Knowledge is of five types:

- i. Sāttvik – it destroys birth, death and senility
- ii. Sāttvik – it liberates spiritual aspirants
- iii. Nirgun – it cultivates devotion and servitude towards Paramātmā Shri Krishna

- iv. Rājas - it leads to yogic powers
- v. Tāmas - it infatuates one in māyā

Of these five, the third is the best form of knowledge. Devotees do not care for the latter two types.

Gnānamrutsār Samhitā – Nārad Pañcharātra : 1.1.45-55

5. Devotion is the only means of liberation for devotees of God. The Pañcharātra scripture propagates this devotion.

Purushottam Samhitā: 1.4

In this way, the Samhitās offer various definitions for the 'Pañcharātra' name, of which some are direct (literal) meanings whereas others are indirect (implied) meanings.

In the Vachanāmṛt of Bhagwān Swāminārāyan has touched upon last two implied definitions, i.e. of the third Rātra of the Gnānamrutsār Samhitā (Nārad Pañcharātra) and of the Purushottam Samhitā. Both these definitions promote devotion to God with servitude, and describe that devotion as being the only means to ultimate liberation. Bhagwān Swāminārāyan explains in reference to the Pañcharātra, "The Pañcharātra scriptures' description of God is that there is one Shri Krishna Purushottam Nārāyan, and it is he who emanates into the four forms of Vāsudev, Sankarshan, Aniruddha and Pradyumna. It is also he who assumes an avatar on this earth. One who offers the nine forms of devotion to him attains liberation." Even after devotees of God have become brahmarup, they still behave as God's servants and engage in His worship. (Vach Gadh II-67 & Gadh I-5)

ANTIQUITY OF THE PAÑCHARĀTRA SAMPRADĀYA

सूरिः सुहृद् भागवतः सात्वतः पञ्चकालवित् । एकान्तिकस्तन्मयश्च पाञ्चरात्रिक इत्यपि ॥

एवमादिभिराख्याभिराख्येयः कमलासन ! । Pādma Samhitā – Charyāpād: 2.87-88

The followers of the Pañcharātra Sampradaya are known as 'Suri', 'Suhrud', 'Bhāgwat', 'Sātvat', 'Ekāntik', 'Tanmay' or 'Pānchrātrik'. These various names of the followers reveal the antiquity of the Pañcharātra Sampradāya.

The seeds of the Pañcharātra Sampradāya can be determined by the term 'Suri' in the following Rig Vedic mantra:

तद्विष्णोः परमं पदं सदा पश्यन्ति सूरयः । Rig Veda: 9.2.7.1

Moreover, the mantras of the Purush-Sukta in the Rig Veda also point to the seeds of Pañcharātra. Dr. Dasgupta in his 'History of Indian Philosophy – Vol. III' (p13-14) notes that this can be regarded as the first signs of the Vaishnav School, i.e. the Pañcharātra Āgamas.

Another reference to the mention of 'Pancharātra' can be found in the post vedic samhitā period, Shatapath Brāhman at 13.6.1.1:

‘पुरुषो ह नारायणोऽकामयत । अतितिष्ठेयं सर्व्वणि भूतान्यहमेवेदं सर्व्वं स्यामिति, स एतत्पुरुषमेघं पञ्चरात्रं यज्ञक्रतुमपश्य’

The Pañcharātra yagna mentioned here may be performed over a period of five days. The compiler of the yagna has been stated as Nārāyan. Nārāyan is the Chosen Deity (Ishtadeva) of the Pañcharātra Samhitās. Since many of the above stated definitions refer to the passing of teachings over a period of 'five nights', this reference in the Shatapath Brāhman must surely have some relation with the Pañcharātra Sampradāya as well. Perhaps one can go as far as to say that the Pañcharātra Sampradāya was in its infant stages during the Shatapath Brāhman times.

In order of antiquity, the third reference to the Pañcharātra can be found in the dialogue between Nārada and Sant Kumar in the Chhāndogya Upanishad. Nārada in his list of credentials notes the 'Ekāyana Veda':

‘ऋग्वेदं भगवोऽध्येमि, यजुर्वेदं, सामवेदं, ह्यथर्वणं, वाकोवाक्यम्, एकायनम्’

Chhāndogya Upanishad: 7.2

Other Samhitās also note that the Pañcharātra is popularly called by the name of 'Ekāyana Veda'.

‘मोक्षायनाय वै पन्था एतदन्यो न विद्यते । तस्मादेकायनं नाम प्रवदन्ति मनीषिणः ॥’

Ishwar Samhitā: 1.19

‘वेदमेकायनं नाम वेदानां शिरसि स्थितम् । तदर्थकं पाञ्चरात्रं मोक्षदं तत्क्रियावताम् ॥’

Shri Prashna Samhitā: 2.39

By calling the Pañcharātra the 'Ekāyana Veda', the followers of the Pañcharātra Sampradāya refer to it as belonging to the Kānva Branch of the Yajur Veda. Thus, the older followers take pride in referring to themselves as belonging to the Kānva Branch as well.

The reference in the Chhāndogya Upanishad to the 'Ekāyana Veda' proves two points at least:

- 1) a religious scripture by the name of 'Ekāyana Veda' was extant prior to the Chhāndogya Upanishad, which Nārada studied.
- 2) if 'Ekāyana' is the name of a branch of Veda and is synonymous with the Pañcharātra, then this necessarily implies that the Pañcharātra Sampradāya existed before the Chhāndogya Upanishad.

Another piece of strong evidence proving the antiquity of the Pañcharātra Sampradāya is the use by Pānini of the 'vun' suffix for Vāsudeva and Arjun. वासुदेवार्जुनाभ्यां वुन्। (Pānini Sutra: 4.3.98) This aphorism applies the suffix 'vun' to those who are devoted to Vāsudeva and Arjun. The suffix in question here is not applied in the context of offspring, since the subsequent aphorism 'गोत्रक्षत्रियाख्येभ्यो बहुलं वुन्।' (Pānini Sutra: 4.3.99) applies to all members of the Kshatriya clan. Being Kshatriyas themselves, this applies to Vāsudeva and Arjun as well – if the desired meaning is 'the child of'. Thus, the application of 'vun' to followers of Vāsudeva clearly points to a sampradāya of some sort. It is common knowledge discerned from all the Samhitās that Vāsudeva is the Ishtadeva of the Pañcharātra Sampradāya. And so it can be unequivocally concluded that the Pañcharātra Sampradāya was established well before the Pānini Sutras were formulated in 7th century BCE. (There are differing opinions as to the exact time scale of the other references mentioned.)

The story of Nārāyaṇa found in the Shānti Parva of the Mahābhārat is also widely accepted as pertaining to the Pañcharātra Sampradāya.

‘Bhagwān Swāminārāyan has also suggested the order of revelation of the Pañcharātra scriptures in reference to the Vedas and other scriptures. He explains in Vachanāmṛt Vartāl-2. 7-11:

In the Vedas, God Himself has described His nature in many ways, but no one could comprehend it. Then the Sāṅkhya scriptures prescribe the 24 elements and said that God is the 25th. The āchārya of the Sāṅkhya philosophy, Kapil Muni, thought, ‘The jiva behaves as if it is one with the three types of bodies – i.e., sthul, sukshma and karan – and it cannot remain separate from them. The ishwar also behaves as if it is one with its adjuncts in the form of its three bodies – virāt, sutrātmā and avyākṛut – and it too cannot remain separate from them.’ Thus, the Sāṅkhya scriptures count jiva and ishwar amongst the 24 elements and claim Paramātmā to be the 25th.

The ārchārya of the Yoga scriptures, Hiranyagarbh Rishi, propounds that there are 24 elements, and the jiva and ishwar are the 25th; but Paramātmā is the 26th.

This is how the Sāṅkhya scriptures and the Yoga scriptures described God’s nature; still, no one attained realisation of the nature of God as He is. By inference it was accepted, ‘According to the Sāṅkhya doctrine, whatever transcends the 24 elements is satya.’ In this manner, through these two philosophies, the nature of God was realised by inference. However, is that God black or yellow? Is He tall or short? Does He possess a form, or is He formless? That was not realised.

Thereafter, Vāsudev Bhagwān himself composed the Pañcharātra Tantra, in which he explained, ‘In his own Akshardham, Shri Kirshna Purushottam Bhagwān eternally possesses a divine form. This God gives darshan five times to the countless niranna-muktas, the residents of Shwetdwip. In Vaikunth, that same God assumes a four-armed form, holding a conch, a disc a mace, a lotus. Along with him is Lakshmiji. He is also served by Vishwakshen and other attendants. It is that same God who is worthy of being offered puja, worthy of worship and worthy of attainment. It is that same God who assumes the avatars of Rām, Kirshna, etc., and who appears in the four forms of Vāsudev, Sankarshan, Pradyumna and Aniruddha.’ In this way, he propounds that God possesses a form.

Then Nārādji revised that same Pañcharātra Tantra, after which it came to be known as the Nārād Panchrātra.

THE SPREAD OF THE PAÑCHARĀTRA SAMPRADĀYA

It has already been proven that the Pañcharātra Sampradāya was established well into the early centuries before the Common Era. During that period, there are several references showing that it was well recognized throughout India.

The principal deity of the Pāñcharātra Sampradāya is Vāsudev. Closely following Him in prominence are the Chaturvyuh (the four emanations) – namely, Vāsudev, Sankarshan, Pradyumna and Aniruddha. Sri Krishna was also called Vāsudev. His brother's name was Sankarshan; His son was called Pradyumna; and His grandson's name was Aniruddha. Many Samhitās have mentions of the festival of Krishna's birth, Janmāshtami, by the name of 'Jayantyutsav'. Although Shri Krishna is considered as a Vibhav avatar – not transcendental (Parswarup) or an emanation (Vyuh) – He has been glorified somewhat more than any of the other avatārs. The abundance of stone tablets and copper plates found circa 3rd century BCE across India extolling Shri Krishna leads to comprehensive proof of the Pāñcharātra Sampradāya's widespread recognition throughout India at that time. In North India, the worship of Vāsudev can be found predominantly in three regions, namely Mādhyamik, Vidishā and Mathurā.

The city of Mādhyamikā was originally located in Rajasthan, near Chittonda. Eminent grammarian Pantanjali has paid a tribute to it in his Mahābhāshya by saying 'अरुणद् यवतो मध्यमिकाम्' (3.3.11). At present, this ancient city is known by the name of Ghosundi. Ancient writings found on a 'Brāhmi' stone tablet from there dated as being from the end of 3rd century BCE are as follows:

१. कारितो अयं राज्ञा भागवतेन गाजायनेन पाराशरी पुत्रेण
२. वर्तानेन (?) अश्वमेधयाजिना भगवद्भ्यां सङ्कर्षणवासुदेवाभ्यां
३. अनिहिताभ्यां सर्वेस्वराभ्यां पूजाशिला, प्राकारो नारायणवाटिका।

The writings refer to three buildings dedicated to Vāsudev-Sankarshan:

1. puja-shilā – a stone murti for worship
2. prākāra – a fort for protection
3. vātikā – a flower garden in the name of Nārāyan

It can be inferred that dedicating a garden to the Vaishnav King could have been inspired by the Sātvat Samhitā. References can be found to this effect in the Sātvat Samhitā: "One who dedicates a beautiful garden blossoming with various flowers and shrubs, lotuses, trees, and one that also has a well and a fortress enjoys the luxuries similar to those of Nandan Van and ultimately attains the unflinching abode of God." (Sātvat Samhitā: 25.366-367) Writings from the stone tablet prove that it is no coincidence the Pāñcharātra Sampradāya and its Samhitās such as the Sātvat Samhitā were well established in the Rajasthan region.

The town of Vidishā, in Madhya Pradesh, has long been regarded as being one of the leading centres of our ancient civilization. Archeological investigations by the Archeological Department have found remains of temples dedicated to Vishnu tracing back to 1st century BCE. During the reign of the Shung Dynasty, around the latter half of 2nd century BCE, a carved pillar dedicated to Garudji was erected in one of the aforesaid temples. The carved writings on the 'Brāhmi' pillar reveal that it was erected by an ambassador to King Antialkaidis (Sanskrit name is Antalikita) by the name of Heliodor. Heliodor commences the writings with a devout mention of Vādudev as 'the God of all gods'. Heliodor goes as far as to cite himself as being a 'Bhāgavat'. This adds substantial proof to the fact that the town of Vidishā was not only a politically important centre, but also one associated with the worship of Vāsudev, i.e.

Pañcharātra worship.

Similar stone tablets found at the birthplace of Shri Krishna, in Mathurā, have inscriptions citing mentions of idols and temples of Vāsudev in 1st century BCE.³

The Pañcharātra Sampradāya was also well established in the southern regions of India since 1st century BCE. A famous set of ancient Tamil poems called 'Paripadal' compiled in 2nd century BCE has mentions of idols of Garud-dhwaj, Sankarshan, Vāsudev and Aniruddha. Specifically, the third and fourth poems have descriptions of the ultimate form of worship, Vishnu, similar to those found in the Pañcharātra or the story of Nārāyaniya. Besides this, there were also idols of Shri Krishna and Balaram found in Tirumanjolai, near Madurai. References to the avatar of Trivikram and Kamalnayan Vishnu are also found in the 2nd century BCE book 'Kurul'.⁴ This and the above findings go to prove beyond doubt that the Pañcharātra Sampradāya existed throughout India before the advent of the Common Era.

BELIEFS REGARDING THE PAÑCHARĀTRA SCRIPTURES IN THE VAISHNAV SAMPRADĀYA

From as early as the 9th to 15th century, one can find the spread of Vishnu worship in all four corners of India. This was largely due to the Vaishnav āchāryas – Rāmānujāchārya, Nimbārkāchārya, Madhvāchārya, Vallabhāchārya and Chaitanya Mahāprabhu – as they established their principles and respective schools of philosophy – Vishishtādvaita, Dvaitādvaita, Dvāita Shudhādvaita and Achintya-bhedābhed. Let us now inquire into how these leading āchāryas have incorporated the Pañcharātra Āgamas into their narration of devotion, and what their beliefs on the Pañcharātra Āgamas exactly are. Since the antiquity of the Pañcharātra Āgamas stretches back to the Mahābhārat era, we shall also be able to discern how deeply the Āgamas made an impact on the minds of the āchāryas and their writings.

RĀMĀNUJĀCHARYA

Chronologically, Rāmānujāchārya can be considered the first of the Vaishnav āchāryas. However, many of the Pañcharātra principles have even been integrated into the devotional poems and writings of his predecessor Yāmunāchārya and the even older Dravidian Alwārs. Prior to the time of Yāmunāchārya, Kumāril Bhatt had vilified the Āgamas in his text 'Tantravārtika'. Yāmunāchārya later went on to substantially counter those arguments in his own work, 'Āgamaprāmānyam'.

In his commentary upon the 'Utpattayasambhavādhikaran' (2.2.42-45) within the Brahma Sutras, Shankarāchārya logically denounces the Pañcharātra doctrine as being incompatible with Vyās. In response, Rāmānujāchārya in the narration of the same aphorisms in his own Shri Bhāshya powerfully answers the questions raised by Shankarāchārya and thus upholds the authenticity of the Pañcharātra Āgamas.

Subsequent āchāryas have abundantly used the Pañcharātra Āgamas in their respective commentaries and treatises. To name just a few: Parāshar Bhatt's 'Sahasranāmabhāshya', Nānjiyar's (Ranganāthmuni) 'Shri Sookata', and Pilai Lokāchārya's 'Mumukshupadi' and 'Tantratrayam'. Vedāntadeshik has freely quoted from the Pañcharātra Samhitās in his works, the 'Niksheparakshā', 'Sachcharittrarakshā' and 'Rahasyatrayam'. Furthermore, the 'Panchrātrarakshā' has allowed an extensive extrapolation to be made according to various Samhitās of the Panch-kāl worship found in the Pañcharātra Sampradāya. This was followed by the writing of 'Pañcharātra Kantakoddhāra' by Vedāchārya, 'Shri-Pancharātrapāramyam' by Uttamuravir Rāghavāchārya, and several other works thereafter such as 'Pañcharātra-sangraha', 'Pañcharātra-prāmānya', etc.

Even today, in places like Shrirangkshetra, worship still follows the Pañcharātra tradition. The worshippers like to label themselves 'Pāñcharātrik's i.e. followers of the Pañcharātra Sampradāya. They also identify themselves with the Vishishtādvāit School, lending further proof of the close relationship between the Pañcharātra and Vaishnav Sampradāyas.

MADHAVĀCHĀRYA

The Dvāit School of Philosophy, seen most prominently today in the state of Karnatak, was promoted by Madhavāchārya. He places equal validity on the Vedas, the Mahābhārat, the original Rāmāyan, and the Pañcharātra scripture.⁵ However, in his commentary of the Brahmā Sutras, Madhvāchārya neither denounces the Pañcharātra doctrine like Shankarāchārya, nor does he propound it like Rāmānujāchārya. In fact, during the discussion under the four aphorisms of 'Utpattayasambhavāt', he goes on to narrate them as denouncing the principle of Shakti, thereby steering the Pañcharātra doctrine clear from any form of arguments or counter-arguments. He has also written a text by the name of 'Tantrasārasamuchchaya' wherein he details the customs of worship, initiation, idol-installation, etc. in much the same style of a Pañcharātra scripture – without actually quoting from them. However, Vyāsrāi, one of the leading scholars after Madhvāchārya's time, has quoted from Pañcharātra Samhitās in his treatise titled 'Sudhā'. Besides this, little else can be seen in the way of dissertation upon Pañcharātra Samhitās in the Dvāit School.

NIMBĀRKĀCHĀRYA

Nimbārkāchārya, like Madhvāchārya, chose to denounce the principle of Shakti in the discussion of the 'Utpattayasambhavādhikaran' in the Brahma Sutras. Thus diverting the discussion away from the Pañcharātra doctrine, he spoke neither in favour of nor against it. However, in the 'Kaustubhaprabhā' treatise upon the Brahma Sutra commentary, Nimbārk does freely quote examples from the Paushkar, Sātvat and Parama Samhitās. Among the contemporary scholars of the school, one finds a mere mention of the Nārad-Pañcharātra.⁶ (At present, the Nārad-Pañcharātra is available in the form of the modern Gnānāmृतasār Samhitā.) Thus, despite being a part of the Vaishnav Sampradāya, there is little to comment on in the Nimbārk School in relation to Pañcharātra literature.

VALLABHĀCHĀRYA

Vallabhāchārya, in comparison, does partially denounce the Pañcharātra doctrine in the aforesaid 'Utpattayasambhavādhikaran' aphorisms of the Brahma Sutras. He even contradicts the detailed narration of temples, worship, etc. found in the Pañcharātra Samhitās by propounding the home as a temple of God – wherein one should worship God personally. In fact, he goes as far as to positively instruct his followers not to construct places of public worship, such as large temples, etc. This in itself illustrates the little relevance and importance of Pañcharātra Āgamas in the Shuddhādvait School promoted by Nimbārkāchārya.

Vallabhāchārya classifies two forms of devotion by the terms 'pushti' and 'maryādā'. 'Pushti bhakti', considered the ultimate spiritual endeavour for his followers, is to dedicate ones wealth, possessions and family to God. If this is not possible, then Vallabhāchārya instructs his followers to selflessly read the Shrimad Bhāgawat Purana. If even this is out of the question, they are then asked to go on pilgrimage to Jagannathpuri, Pandharpur, Shirangshetra, Tirupatikshetra, etc.⁷ This is called 'maryādā bhakti'. In this way, the Pañcharātra Samhitās are of little significance for followers of the Shuddhādvait School.

CHAITANYA MAHĀPRABHU

The Guadiya Sampradāya, promoted largely by Chaitanya Mahāprabhu, has attracted large followers in the states of Bengal and Orissa. The devotional customs of worship, idol-installation, initiation, festivals, etc. of the Sampradāya have been detailed in a book written by Sanātana Goswāmi and Shri Gopāl Bhatt called 'Shribhaktivilās'. The book inspired by Chaitanya Mahāprabhu has references from no less than 25 Pañcharātra Samhitās. A concise version of 'Shribhaktivilās' has also been written by the name of 'Pancharātradeep'.

Another small booklet with Hindi and English translation has been published upon the Pañcharātra called 'Shribrahmasamhitā'. This, in fact, is only the fifth chapter of what is noted to have originally been a 100-chapter book. However, eminent Pañcharātra scholar Daniel Smith does not regard this booklet as one of the traditional Samhitās.⁸

Thus, excepting Vallabhāchārya, all of the Vaishnav āchāryas have whole-heartedly accepted the authenticity of the Pañcharātra Samhitās. But apart from Rāmānujāchārya, none of the other āchāryas have been very specific in their comments upon them. As a result perhaps, if a Vaishnav worshipper of today were to be asked: 'Which system of worship do you follow?', the common reply more probably than not would be: 'The Nārad Pancharātra'. It is hard to comprehend the reason behind such basic ignorance of the Pañcharātra Samhitās – especially since the Vaishnav worshippers are themselves so insistent about worshipping Vishnu properly.

PAÑCHARĀTRA AND THE SWĀMINĀRĀYAN SAMPRADĀYA

"Yoga ne Sānkhya re Pañcharātra Vedānt, e shastrano re, rahasya kahe kari khānt..."

This line, excerpted from the Chestā, a collection of verses describing Bhagwān Swāminārāyān's divine exploits, makes reference to the enthusiasm with which Bhagwān Swāminārāyān expounded on the subtle truths of such scriptures as the Pañcharātra. Along with the rest of the Chestā, this particular line has been memorized and is sung every night by the devotees of the Swāminārāyān Sampradāya. So it is but natural that any reference to the Pañcharātra will instantly bring this particular line to the mind of any member of the Satsang fellowship — whether male or female, young or old, householder or sadhu. This reference serves as an admirable introduction to an explanation of the Pañcharātra.

Any individual who has is even faintly acquainted with the scriptures of the Swāminārāyān Sampradāya will undoubtedly have great esteem for the Nārad Pañcharātra. This respect has its origins in the fact that Bhagwān Swāminārāyān has made reference to the Nārad Pañcharātra in two separate places in the Vachanāmṛut, the principal scripture of the Swāminārāyān Sampradāya. In Vachanāmṛut Vadtāl-2.10-11, Bhagwān Swāminārāyān informs:

“Vāsudev Bhagwān himself composed the Pañcharātra Tantra, in which he explained, ‘In his own Akshardhām, Shri Krishna Purushottam Bhagwān eternally possesses a divine form...’ In this way, he propounded that God possesses a form. Then Narādji revised that same Pañcharātra Tantra, after which it came to be known as the Nārad Pañcharātra. In that, God’s nature was explained in such a manner that not even the slightest doubt remained.”

In this reference to the Pañcharātra, Bhagwān Swāminārāyān has also provided an explanation of why the Pañcharātra is referred to as the ‘Nārad Pancharātra’. In the Vachanāmṛut’s second reference to the Pañcharātra, Vachanāmṛut Gadhadā II-8.14, Bhagwān Swāminārāyān points to the Nārad Pañcharātra as proof “that liberation cannot be attained without performing yagnas.”

So, from a literary point of view, Bhagwān Swāminārāyān has linked the ‘Nārad Pancharātra’ to the Sāṅkhya, Yoga, and Vedānt scriptures. Ādhārānand Swāmi, a Paramahansa initiated by Bhagwān Swāminārāyān, reinforces this point in his ‘Haricharitrāmṛut Sāgar’ (24/65-66):

The next day, Shrihari told Nityānand Muni, “I have heard that the Nārad Pañcharātra scripture is in Junāgadh. Set out in search of it and obtain a copy.” Saying this, He also sent a party of 20-25 scholarly sādhus to accompany Nityānand Swāmi. Shrihari gave consecrated food from his own plate to Nityānand Swāmi as well as to the other sādhus. Along with the sādhus, He also sent Mayarām Bhatt of Mānāvadar to Junāgadh to assist in the acquisition of a copy of the Nārad Pañcharātra scripture.

Although there are countless Samhitās of the Pañcharātra Sampradāya, the vernacular literature of the Swāminārāyan Sampradāya has repeatedly made reference to this entire body of scriptures by the single name of ‘Nārad Pancharātra’.

Referring to the Pañcharātra scriptures in their entirety as ‘Nārad Pancharātra’ is not a peculiarity limited only to the Swāminārāyān Sampradāya. It is a common custom found noticeably in numerous handwritten documents and printed literature. This is discussed with substantial evidence under the topic “Nārad Pañcharātra: The General Name for Pañcharātra Samhitās”. The point to be made here is that the Satsang fellowship as well as the scholarly sādhus and devotees of the time were only aware of the Pañcharātra as a single scripture by the name of ‘Nārad Pancharātra’.

Discussions held between the scholars of Vadodara and Swāminārāyān Bhagwan have been noted by Nityānand Swāmi in the 'Shriharidigvijay' (45/14-16):

Shriji Mahārāj said, "The Pañcharātra Scripture is lengthy and difficult to understand by common folk. Hence, the scripture is found only in the homes of the highly educated, and only rarely even there. Even at present, in this region, there are only four complete 'rātras' to be found. In addition, there is a fifth 'rātra' which is only half complete. Therefore, my fellow scholars! The answer to your question is discussed in detail in the Pañcharātra. Moreover, this scripture was carefully studied in its entirety by my father, Dharmadev."

Here, Nityānand Swāmi uses the term 'ratra' to denote the Pañcharātra as a work divided into five parts. Also, he affirms that only four and a half 'rātras' are available in the homes of Gujarat's educated elite. In verses 84 & 85 of the same chapter, he quotes verses from the third and fifth rātras. And then in verses 116 & 117, he goes on to quote from the second ratra. Further on, without referring to any specific Samhitā by name, Nityānand Swāmi begins by saying "the Pañcharātra has said that..." and adds, "a husband is the Guru for the wife."

In his 'Gitā Bhāṣya' (15.16), Gopālānand Swāmi refers to the Pancharātra's Bruhad-brahma Samhitā (4.46-47) to expound on the eternal ignorance of the jiva and the necessity of God's grace for liberation.

Similarly, verses from the Bhāradvāj Samhitā are mentioned on pages 58 and 61 of the Shāstrārth Paripatini, a book of dialogues between Vāsudev Bhatt and Vishnu Sharmā compiled by Āchārya Vihārīlālji Mahārāj. These same verses, with minor variations, are found in the Bhāradvāj Samhitā (1.42 & 1.39) published from the Venkateshwar Press in Mumbai.

In addition to this, this same book has quoted verses from the Sātvat Tantra (p61) and the Sanatkumar Samhitā (p84) with reference to their particular names. However, these verses are found neither in the Sampurnanand Sanskrit Vishvavidyalaya copy of the Sātvat Tantra, nor in Adaya Library's (Madras) 1967 printed copy of the Sanatkumar Samhitā.

Here, just as in the 'Shriharidigvijay', examples of the third, second and forth rātras of the Nārada Pañcharātra are given on p54, 62, and 96, respectively. In addition to this, references to the 'Pañcharātra-vachanam' (p75) and 'Nārada-Pancharātre' (p 58) are also occasionally found.

In this manner, in addition to references to the Nārada Pañcharātra, references to the Bruhad Samhitā, Bhāradvāj Samhitā, Sātvat Samhitā, and Santkumar Samhitā can be occasionally found in the scriptures of the Swāminārāyān Sampradāya. However, other than these few examples, no reference to the other numerous Pañcharātra Samhitās has been obtained.

Nevertheless, the astonishing fact remains that much of the tradition of the Swāminārāyān Sampradāya is strongly connected to the Pañcharātra Āgamas. This is clearly apparent by glancing at the life of Bhagwān Swāminārāyān.

At the age of 11, Bhagwān Swāminārāyan renounced home and departed for the jungle. During his pilgrimage on foot of the entire length and breadth of India, the places of pilgrimage he visited are mostly the ones described in the Pañcharātra scriptures – Shaligrāmshetra, Pulhāshram, Badrināth, Shrirang, Totādri, etc.

Even the mantra given by His Guru is from the Pañcharātra – (I am Brahma and the servant of Krishna). This is noted by Shukānand Swāmi in the 'Hetu' section of the Satsangjivanam (4.48.44-45).

When Rāmānand Swāmi appointed Bhagwān Swāminārāyan as the Head of the Sampradāya, the praise of the rishis and deities noted in the Shri Harilīlākalpataru (2.63.59) is as follows:

At that time Nārad offered praise: "As yet, no one has been powerful enough to propagate throughout the land, the auspicious devotion of the Pancharātra Scripture, which has been spoken by me. This devotion will be spread by You in all four directions, throughout the world.

The descriptions of Shwetdip, Vaikunth, Golok, and Brahmadhām repeatedly given by Bhagwān Swāminārāyan during His discourses are similar to those found in the Pañcharātra Samhitās.⁹

The Pañcharātra has even been invoked verbatim in Bhagwān Swāminārāyan's discourses. Moreover, Bhagwān Swāminārāyan has repeatedly pronounced that the belief in the principle of God eternally possessing a form (i.e. being 'sākār') has been established based on the Pañcharātra. Specifically, in Vachanāmrut Gadhadā I-52, He says:

The Pancharātra scriptures' description of God is that there is one Shri Krishna Purushottam Nārāyan, and it is he who emanates into the four forms of Vāsudev, Sankarshan, Aniruddha, and Pradyumna. It is also he who assumes an avatar on this earth. One who offers the nine types of devotion to him attains liberation.

Here, in reference to understanding God's form, Bhagwān Swāminārāyan gives the Pañcharātra the same elevated status as the Vedānt scriptures. In addition to this, in Vachanāmruṭs Gadhadā I-78, Panchālā-2, and Vadātāl-3, Bhagwān Swāminārāyan refers to the Pancharātras again regarding the description of God's form.

The Pañcharātra Samhitās refer to two types of yagnas:

- 1) Mānas-yāg (Inner-Yāg): worship of God using only the thoughts of one's mind
- 2) Bahya-yāg (Outer-Yāg): worship of God using physical objects

Bhagwān Swāminārāyan has mentioned the same mental and physical forms of worship in Vachanāmruṭs Sārangpur-3 and Gadhadā III-23. In addition, in verses 51 to 65 of the Shikshāpatrī, the methods of mental and physical worship that Bhagwān Swāminārāyan has described show striking similarities to the rituals described in the Pañcharātra scriptures.

Moreover, an extremely important theme found in the Pancharātras is the construction of mandirs. The important aspects of constructing mandirs, celebrating festivals, and guiding innumerable seekers towards the path of spirituality have all been shown in the Pañcharātra Āgamas. Bhagwān Swāminārāyan also states in Vachanāmṛut Gadhadā II-27.12:

"...for the sake of preserving upāsānā, I have relaxed the emphasis on renunciation and have built mandirs of God..."

The most famous mandirs built in accordance to the Pañcharātra Āgamas have all employed the Dravidian style. The fact that Swāminārāyan mandirs are of the Nāgar style, seems to suggest an inconsistency with the Pañcharātra Āgamas. However, the Nāgar, Dravidian, and Vesar styles have all been described in the Pādma Samhitā (Kriyā-pād: 9.1). Thus a mandir built in any of these styles is consistent with the Pañcharātra Āgamas.

In the fifth chapter of the 12th canto of the Satsangjivanam, there is mention of 25 Pañcharātra and Saptarātra Tantras of the Vaishnav doctrine - many of which are still available today. Bhagwān Swāminārāyan has instructed the building of mandirs to be in accordance to these samhitās.

Although the format of festivals in the Swāminārāyan Sampradāya very much adheres to the ways propounded by Vithalnathji, the 2nd Shudhādvait Āchārya (Shikshāpatri: 81-82), they still share great resemblance with the festivals of the Pañcharātra Sampradāya. The following table will clarify:

Similarities are also seen in the festivals of Ramnavmi, Nrusinh Jayanti, Pavitrotsav, Plavotsav, Annkutotsav, and numerous others. In this way, the Swāminārāyan Sampradāya has a special relation with the Pañcharātra Āgamas. In light of this, it can be said with great certainty that after Rāmānujāchārya's School of Vishishtadvait, the Swāminārāyan School has accepted the most from the Pañcharātra Āgama methodology.

NĀRAD PAÑCHARĀTRA': THE GENERAL NAME FOR PAÑCHARĀTRA SAMHITĀS

The Pañcharātra Āgamas are well recognized by the name of 'Nārad Pancharātra' in the Swāminārāyan, Nimbārka, and Chaitanya Sampradāyas. One reason for this is that the 'Gnānāmṛtsār Samhitā' (first published in Devnagri script, in Calcutta, in 1965) was titled 'Nārad Pancharātra' in large print. This led even scholars to assume that the 'Gnānāmṛtsār Samhitā' was in fact the 'Nārad Pancharātra'. The misnomer was further popularized within the Vaishnav Sampradāya by the Hindi and English translations being published with the same title in 1887, 1921, 1974 and 1985.

Many of the Pañcharātra Āgama Samhitās found in northern India – either of the front cover, in the colophon, or even – carry the words 'Nārad Pancharātra' as a title. It seems, therefore, a tradition to address all samhitās as 'Nārad Pancharātra' since it was originally Nārad who transmitted the teachings after having received them from Nārāyan.

This is stated in the story of Nārāyan, in the Shānti Parva of the Mahābhārat (326.100-101):

This Upanishad in the form of the Pañcharātra encompasses the essence of all four Vedas. Filled with principles of Sāṅkhya and Yoga, and famous by the name of Pañcharātra, this scripture has been articulated by Bhagwān Nārāyan. Nārad heard this and preached it in Brahmā's abode. This, what I have told You, O Father, is what I have seen and heard.

Thus the Nārad Pañcharātra has become famous because it has been spoken by Nārad. And as aforesaid, it seems that it has become a tradition among writers to title all samhitās by this name.

Here are some examples of handwritten manuscripts that support this notion. Although the original name of the samhitā may vary, the main title is noted as 'Nārad Pancharātra'.

Even books such as the Gnānāmṛtsār Samhitā, Bhāradvāj Samhitā, Shāndilya Samhitā, Bruhadbrahma Samhitā and Māheshwar Tantra have 'Nārada Pancharātra' stated either in the colophon or the title of the text book. INTRODUCTION TO PAÑCHARĀTRA ĀGAMAS Samhitās of Pañcharātra Āgamas are generally classified into four broad topics: Gnān, Yoga, Kriyā and Charchā. Before we try to briefly understand these four themes, it is important to note that the Samhitās – excepting the Pādma Samhitā – do not outline them very distinctly. Nevertheless, four subjects of matter can be ascertained in some form or another.

GNĀN

Pañcharātra Samhitās contain detailed descriptions of the form of God, along with the narrations of the process of 'pure' and 'impure' creation. In the 'Pañcharātra Darshan', Paramātmā is described as having two or four hands; as being nirāloka, nirmayāda, nirābhāsa, niranjana, i.e. devoid of all worldly qualities; and overflowing with the six virtues of knowledge, strength, etc. In comparison with other subjects, though, the description of God is in somewhat less detail.

God, or Paramātmā, resides in either Vaikunth or Shwetaḍip; Lakshmiḍi is His crowned wife; and Vishwakḍen, Garuda, etc. are forever present in his humble service. A detailed description of Lakshmiḍi and the abode of Vaikunth are available in contemporary samhitās such as the Pādma Samhitā and Shri Prashna Samhitā.

A description of both the 'pure' and 'impure' creation can be found in the samhitās as well. The 'pure' creation refers to the descent of the Vyūhas (i.e. the four emanations as well as the 24 murtis) and the Vibhavs (i.e. other avatars). It is described using the analogies of a plant sprouting from a seed, or an oil lamp being lit from an already lit oil lamp. This is the way in which Vāsudev, Sankarshan, Pradyumna and Aniruddha take birth from the supreme form, Paramātmā.

Of these incarnations, Paramātmā empowers Sankarshan with special knowledge and strength to establish Ekāntik Dharma. Pradyumna has been gifted with valour and grandeur to reveal the path of God-realisation by expounding the meaning of the scriptures. Aniruddha, who is strong and majestic, grants the fruits of understanding the scriptures. But Vāsudev is described as having all of the six virtues of knowledge, strength, etc.

It has been identified that the 24 forms (murtis) of Keshav, etc. incarnate from the Chaturvyuha (four emanations). The Pādma Samhitā confirms this by saying: "Twenty-four forms holding a lotus, conch shell, disc and mace manifest from the Four Emanations. Keshav, Nārāyan and Mādhav manifest from Vāsudev. Govind, Vishnu and Madhusudan manifest from Sankarshan. Trivikram, Vāman and Shridhara manifest from Pradyumna. And again, Vāsudeva manifests from Vāsudev. Similarly, Sankarashan from Sankarshan, Pradyumna from Pradyumna, and Aniruddha from Aniruddha. Likewise, Purushottam, Adhokshaj, Nrusinh and Achyut manifest from the four mentioned above. And Janārdan, Upendra, Hari and Krishna manifest from Purushottam, Adhokshaj, Nrusinh and Achyut."¹⁰

The method illustrated here is not commonly accepted in all of the Pañcharātra Samhitās. Nevertheless, even with minor variations, descriptions of the 24 forms (murtis) can certainly be found.

Thereafter, the 39 Vibhav Devas manifest from Vāsudev, who is above Aniruddha and Vishākhayuparup. Included in the 39 Vibhav Devas are: avatars such as Rām, Krishna, etc. who incarnated on earth; Vishwaswarup, Vihamgam, etc. who descended from Swarg; and Varāh, Nrusinh, etc. who manifested for a specific mission for the Devas.¹¹ The ten or 24 avatars as described in the Indian Sanatan Dharma are all incorporated into these 39 manifestations.

Thereafter, the 'impure' creation is described. Pradhān, Mahatattva, the three types of Ahamkār, Virāt Purush, etc. all manifest from māyā – which itself is formed of the three qualities. Many samhitās describe the process of creation in general terms, similar in style to the Purāns.

YOGA

Yoga is described as having eight limbs, as found in Patānjala Yoga. It is cited in various samhitās, namely: Jayākhyā Samhitā chapter 10, Nāradiya Samhitā chapter 30, and Paushkar Samhitā chapter 27. These samhitās explain the use of Yoga for attaching one's mind to God by the purification of one's mind, prān and nādi.

KRIYĀ

A detailed description of how to build a mandir is also available in these samhitās. They provide detailed instructions regarding: the selecting of an appropriate village for a mandir; the selecting of the precise location within the village for the mandir; the examining of the land; the performing of rituals such as Gharbha-shilānyās and Vastu-pujan; ... and finally, the installation of the murtis (idols) within the completed mandir.

The detailing of how the murtis to be installed in the mandir should be sculpted is so intricate that it would astonish any modern sculptor. Minute details such as the different types of material that can be used, i.e. wood, stone, metal, clay, etc.; the exact dimensions of individual limbs; how the positioning of limbs differ for standing, seated and lying murtis; etc. are all meticulously included.

CHARCHĀ

Pañcharātra Samhitās also include details of: festivals, method of initiation, conveying the initiation mantra, the daily routine of a Vaishnav devotee, the techniques of worshipping God at different times of the day, the attainment of special powers by use of various mantras, etc. This, generally, is the basic subject matter of Pañcharātra Samhitās as a whole. Clearly, individual samhitās will also differ by their own individual fortes and foibles.

THE ANTIQUITY OF THE PAÑCHARĀTRA SAMHITĀS

The origins of the Pañcharātra Samhitās have been clearly delineated in the Shānti Parva of the Mahābhārat. It notes, "This Upanishad in the form of the Pañcharātra encompasses the essence of all four Vedas. Filled with principles of Sāṅkhya and Yoga, and famous by the name of Pañcharātra, this scripture has been articulated by Bhagwān Nārāyan."¹²

Prior to here in the Mahābhārat, the Samhitās of the Pañcharātra Sampradāya have not been so clearly denoted in any other scripture. As a result, many unanswered questions remain, such as: "At that time, how many Samhitās were there in total? Which ones? Which Samhitās were called by the name of Nārada Pañcharātra?" etc. However, there is evidence that there were also Āgamas (Samhitās) even prior to the oldest Sātvat Samhitā, but it is unclear which those were.

Scholars agree that of the large collection of Samhitās, the Sātvat Samhitā is the oldest. A reference from the Samhitā itself indicates the time of its conception: "At the commencement of the Tretā Yug, as God's complexion began to redden, Sankarshan asked God the reason for this, ... and thus commenced the Samhitā."¹³ However, as found with other Samhitās, this statement seems largely based on faith prevalent within the fellowship itself; it does not stand the test of historicity.

Another possible reference to the Sātvat Samhitā is found in the Bhishma Parva of the Mahābhārat, as 'Sātvatavidhim-āsthāya' (6.62.89). This statement could be explained to mean: "At the conclusion of Dwāpar Yug and the commencement of Kali Yug, Brāhmins, Kshatriyas, Vaishyas and appropriate Shudras should worship and serve the form of Paramātmā in accordance with the customs propounded in the Sātvat Samhitā, as described by Sankarshan." If this statement is in fact referring to the Sātvat Samhitā, then one can assume that the Samhitā was created at the beginning of Kali Yug, circa 3000 BCE. However, if we accept the commonly accepted meaning of the word Sātvat here as 'a form of devotee', then we cannot consider this explanation to be a reference to a Samhitā. As it stands, most scholars do not accept this statement as a reference to the Sātvat Samhitā.

¹² Mahābhārat, Shānti Parva: 12.377-63 (Gorakhpur Edition)

¹³ Sātvat Samhitā: 1.18- 21

In the treatise to the Spanda-Pradipikā (verse 9), the 9th century CE Utpalvaishnav has written “Shri-Sātvatā” and quoted two further verses:

‘अज्ञता व्यापकत्वञ्च सुखदुःखादिवेदनम् । सर्वज्ञस्याऽऽत्मतत्त्वस्य कर्मचक्रावलम्बनात् ॥

गतीस्त्वेषा प्रकृत्याख्या शुद्धिः प्राक् कर्मवासना । मायाऽविद्या भ्रमो मोहो ज्ञानं मलमिति क्वचित् ॥’

The first verse of this pair can be found, with just minor variations, in the Sātvat Samhitā (18.128). This reference establishes with certainty that the Sātvat Samhitā was extant prior to 9th century CE. Moreover, the arguments of Vrajvallabh Dvivedi¹⁴ show that the Spanda-Pradipikā also contains references to the Jyākhya Samhitā¹⁵ and Ahirbudnya Samhitā¹⁶. Thus, it can be deduced that the Jyākhya Samhitā is older than the Spanda-Pradipikā, and in this way, inferences can be made on the antiquity of the Sātvat Samhitā.

Since the Ahirbudnya Samhitā (5.59 and 19.64) quotes examples from both the Sātvat Samhitā and the Jyākhya Samhitā, it proves the Ahirbudnya Samhitā is older than the Spanda-Pradipikā, that the Jyākhya Samhitā is even older, and that the Sātvat Samhitā is even older still. Thus it can be inferred that the Sātvat Samhitā was written at least prior to 6th or 7th century CE. Thereafter, as the philosophy of the Vaishnav Sampradāy continued to evolve, various Samhitās continued to be written. The most recent of Samhitās is the Vishva Samhitā, named in reference to its author, Vishvanāth Bhatt, son of Shri Krishnāchārya. In brief, Samhitās have continued to be written in this manner from the 6th or 7th century up to the 18th century.

THE LITERATURE OF THE PAÑCHARĀTRA SAMHITĀS

The body of Pañcharātra scriptures comprises of numerous independent Samhitās. Just as the 18 different Purāns are together referred to by the single term ‘Purān’, similarly ‘Pancharātra’ is the collective name for the numerous Samhitā scriptures. In addition to the Pañcharātra, there are also other Vaishnav Samhitā scriptures – such as the Garga Samhitā. Moreover, there are also Jyotish Samhitā scriptures such as the ‘Nāradiya Samhitā’. The Pañcharātra Samhitā scriptures can be understood by obtaining a clear understanding of their internal structure. They can also be recognised from words such as ‘Pancharātre’ and ‘Pāncharātre’ that are sometimes found in the colophon. Just like the Pañcharātra Samhitā scriptures, there are also the Pañcharātra Tantrā scriptures – such as the Bhārgav Tantra, the Lakshmi Tantra etc. In the Vaishnav Sampradāya, the Samhitā scriptures outnumber the Tantra scriptures whereas the converse is true in the Shaiva and Shākta Sampradāyas.

The Samhitā scriptures have been composed primarily in the Anushtup metre. Very few Samhitā have made use of other metres, and sections of prose are extremely rare. Furthermore, these Samhitās have been composed mostly in a question-answer format.

Pañcharātra literature comprises of an extremely large body of scriptures. Many scripture have noted that in all, there are a total of 15 million verses. The Paushkar Samhitā goes as far

14. Sātvat Samhitā: Introduction p5-7; by Vrajvallabh Dvivedi

15. Spanda-Pradipikā: 1/p708 and Jyākhya Samhitā: 20.233; Spanda-Pradipikā: 52/p46 and Jyākhya Samhitā: 1.63

16. Spanda-Pradipikā: 30/p35 and Ahirbudnya Samhitā: 15.71

as to say: "There are crores of (Pañcharātra scriptures) that have found a place within the hearts of the innumerable realised sages – who have attained the knowledge of all that can be known from Parameshwar during the course of Time."

The names of 108 Samhitās appear within the texts of the following scriptures: Pādma Samhitā, Kapinjal Samhitā, Purushottam Samhitā, Bhāradhvāj Samhitā, Mārkanḍeya Samhitā, Vishvāmitra Samhitā, Vishnu Tantra and Vishva Samhitā. However, the Pādma Samhitā and the Vishvāmitra Samhitā are the only Samhitās which contain a complete list of all 108. The other scriptures list the following number of Samhitās:

▪ Vishnu Tantra:	154
▪ Kapinjal Samhitā:	100
▪ Purushottam Samhitā:	106
▪ Bhāradhvāj Samhitā:	103
▪ Mārkanḍeya Samhitā:	91
▪ Vishva Samhitā:	91

In addition to this, the names of 25 other Samhitās have been found from:

- Hayashirsh Pañcharātra – Ādikāṇḍ: 2.2-7
- Maheshvar Tantra – Gnānkāṇḍ: 25.16-20
- Agni Purān: 39.1-7
- Satsangjivan: 5.12.8-12

Of the above mentioned Samhitās, there are several Samhitās that share the same name.

Furthermore, in the Spand-pradīpikā treatise¹⁷ on Vasugupta's Spand-kārikā, the Shri Kālaparā and Hansa-pārameshwar Samhitās have been excerpted. In the Pāncharātra-rakshā¹⁸, the Kālotar Samhitā has been quoted six times, and the Saumantav Samhitā quoted once. And both the Chatuh-shloki Bhāshya¹⁹ and the Stotra-ratna Bhāshya²⁰ have mentions of the Mahālakshmi Samhitā, Ghanada Samhitā, Mankana Samhitā, and other Samhitās. This by no means should be considered an exhaustive list; there is further scope to investigate the names of many more Samhitās.

THE CONCEPTION OF A SAMHITĀ CATALOGUE

In 1994, Pujya Paramapurush Swāmi, a member of Akshardham: a centre for Applied Research in Social Harmony (AARSH), began writing a research paper entitled 'Pañcharātra-Rakshā: Śrochanātmakam-adhyayanam – A Critical Study of the Pañcharātra-Rakshā'. Serving as the guide at the time was Dr. K.K.A. Venkatāchārya, an eminent scholar and authority on the Pañcharātra. Working under his guidance led us all to hope that the work would be promptly completed. Initially, Pujya Paramapurush Swāmi – and perhaps even other learned sadhus and devotees of the Swāminārāyan Sampradāya – was only aware of the ‘Nārad Pancharātra’ and a couple of other Samhitās. However, Dr. K.K.A. Venkatāchārya introduced us to ‘Pañcharātra Nul Vidkkam’ and texts written by Daniel Smith on this subject. It was then that we realised there were many more Samhitās to research.

During the period of research, various obstacles constantly hindered progress. Primarily, the difficulty of actually obtaining Pañcharātra Samhitās, and thereafter, transliterating them. Then there were also other problems such as ill health, etc. Consequently, progress was very slow.

Meanwhile, Paramapurush Swāmi’s detailed investigations, he soon came to realise that if the various Pañcharātra topics were understood along with the philosophy of the Swāminārāyan Sampradāya, then a great amount of valuable research material could be collected – enough to write many research papers in fact. This placed him in the dilemma of exactly which avenues to explore and which to ignore. Ultimately, he decided to re-title the research paper to accommodate a wider spectrum of Pañcharātra topics in order to do justice to the material available, and thereby contribute to the philosophical circle of the Sampradāya in a more comprehensive manner. The revised title of his thesis was ‘Shri-Swāminārāyana-Sampradāye Pancharātrasya Sthānam’.

To accelerate the research work, His Divine Holiness Pramukh Swāmi Mahārāj asked me to join as a research partner. And thus began the actual writing process of this research paper.

During the work of the Pañcharātra literature chapter, many questions arose: Firstly, how many Pañcharātra Samhitās are there? And secondly; who has published a list of names of these Samhitās? I asked Paramapurush Swāmi whether the current list of Samhitās was accurate or whether it needed verifying through further investigation. Within the time constraints, Paramapurush Swāmi studied new lists. And indeed, the number of Samhitās kept growing. Schrader and Krishnamāchāraya informed us of a new and longer list of Samhitās. Dr. P.P. Apte provided an even longer list. And the longest list of all was given by Dr. K.K.A Venkatāchāri. Now new questions arose: How many of these new Samhitās have been researched? By whom? To what extent? And how and where can one find all this?

Paramapurush Swāmi decided to combine all four scholars’ lists together. Many variations and differences were noticeable among the lists, such as: basic differences of names, differences in names due to the word ‘Tantra’ or ‘Samhitā’, differences in spelling or construction of names, etc. Indeed, every chapter of each list had such variations.

All this lead to the crystallizing of a thought: a list of the names of all the Samhitās with all their own variations should be formulated. Furthermore, for the benefit of future researchers, this list should incorporate the remarks and notes of all of the scholars who have worked on these Samhitās. And AARSH could publish such a list. The publication could also answer the fundamental questions of: Which Samhitās are published and which are not? How many more names can be found? etc. These ideas received the blessings of His Divine Holiness Pramukh Swāmi Mahārāj and the guidance of Pujya Ishwarcharan Swāmi. In this way, a subsection of the research paper developed into this, an independent volume – ‘The Pañcharātra Āgama Catalogue’.

SALIENT FEATURES OF EARLIER CATALOGUES

Firstly, Mr. Otto Schrader, director of the Adayar Library and Research Centre (Madras), published a book titled 'An Introduction to the Pāncharātra and the Ahirbudnya Samhitā' in 1916. In this, he has included a list of the Pañcharātra Samhitās. Under the heading 'Synopsis of the Samhitā Lists (p6-12), he has suggested the name of 215 Samhitās. Each name in the list has a cross-reference explaining from which Samhitās they have been obtained from. Kapinajal Samhitā, Pādma Samhitā, Vishnu Tantra, Hayashirsh Tantra and Agni Purān are the five principal scriptures he has derived the lists from. He has also numbered the Samhitās in the sequence they appear in the original scriptures he has referenced. In his remarks, he has also mentioned any other names, similar names and possible names that the Samhitās could be recognised by. Thus, in 1916, Mr. Schrader became the first scholar to present to the academia such an extensive list of the Pañcharātra Samhitās. People could now appreciate the extent of the body of Pañcharātra Āgamas.

Thereafter, in 1959, the Adayar Library published a work written by V. Krishnamāchārya called 'Lakshmi Tantra'. In the detailed introduction under the heading of 'Pañcharātra-Samhitā-Sankhyā-Parigānanam' (p10), he has listed the names of several Samhitās. The list includes more names from the Mārkaṇḍeya Samhitā and Bhāradvāj Samhitā than from Mr. Schrader's Samhitās. Within the list, not all the names necessarily include names with the term 'Samhitā' or 'Tantra'. However, he has referred to both Samhitā and Tantra scriptures – such as the Ishwar Samhitā and the Kurma Tantra. In all, he has listed names of 225 Samhitās, but he has not revealed the source-list of each name as has Mr. Schrader.

Thereafter, in 1962, Dr. P.P. Apte from the University of Pune wrote a thesis titled 'Pañcharātra Samhitās: A Study' under the guidance of Dr. M.G. Mainkar. In Appendix III of the thesis, he mentions several scriptures that he used to collect a list of names and produce a revised catalogue of Samhitās. The seven scriptures he referred to are: Vishwāmitra Samhitā, Purushottam Samhitā, (Paramapurush Samhitā?) Pārameshwar Samhitā, and Paravaidik Siddhānt. Dr. Apte has only mentioned the names from the Samhitā verses that do not include 'Samhitā' or 'Tantra' in their names. He has arrived at a final total of 288 names.

In 1967, both American scholar Daniel Smith and Dr. K.K.A. Venkatāchāri put in a tremendous amount of effort to add the Samhitā names cited in the Gnānāmṛtsār Samhitā, Māheshwara Tantra and Spanda-pradīpikā to the collection of names mentioned above. In addition to listing the names, they also noted the source and sequence of the Samhitās as they appear in their original lists. The work was then compiled into a book titled 'Pāncharātra Nul Vilakkam', wherein the total of Samhitā names stated is 288.

FEATURES OF THE 'CATALOGUE OF PAÑCHARĀTRA SAMHITĀS'

On the basis of the research of previous scholars and deeper investigation into the numerous lists of Samhitās, a grand total of 460 Samhitā names has been derived. The follow factors played a major role in arriving at this number:

- All the names cited by previous scholars
- Addition of names cited in Shruta-prakāshikā, Āgama-prāmānyam, Vedānta Deshik's Saccharitra-rakshā, Nikshepa-rakshā, Pañcharātra-rakshā, Strotra-ratna Bhāshya, Chatuh-shloki Bhāshya, etc.

- Addition of names cited in the introduction of 'Pāñcharātra Nul Vilakkam'
- An investigation of manuscripts obtained from institutional and personal libraries
- Addition of names obtained from Shri Yadugiri Yatirāj Sampat Kumar Rāmānuj Swāmi
- Addition of names that are distinct Samhitās though they may share names that may be derivatives of other Samhitās, i.e. including both the Nārad Samhitā and the Nāradiya Samhitā
- Addition of Samhitā names that share exactly the same name though are distinct Samhitās with evident differences in subject, dialogue and language

In this way, the Pañcharātra Samhitās have been specially enumerated and sequenced.

This catalogue has been arranged into three basic sections: names of Samhitās found in published lists, names of Samhitās found in unpublished lists, and names of Samhitās found as merely names. The titles of the Samhitās, in the above three sections, are given in English and Sanskrit. The common details of the three sections are given as 'Samhitā Support' in the following sub-section. The section shows the total number of lists of Samhitās wherein the name of the particular Samhitā is given.

Schrader and Venkatacharya have mentioned in their catalogues the exact serial number in the list of Samhitās, wherein the name of specific Samhitā is given. Hence, it is not given here.

Secondly the common information of the three sections is : the mention of the serial number of the particular Samhitā, in the catalogues of the aforesaid scholars. The slight changes/modifications in the Samhitā's name (e.g. change of spellings, difference in the last words of Samhitā/Tantra etc.) written by a scholar in his catalogue is included as originally mentioned, but the difference is shown by the sign of interrogation, against the serial number of name of the Samhitā. Remarks, in Sanskrit and English are also additionally given below to show the difference in the name of Samhitā, wherever the question mark is made. This specific additional information may be greatly helpful to the future scholars, interested in the study of the catalogues of the four scholars of Pāñcharātra. In other words the informations available in four different catalogue is now made easily obtainable in a single schedule.

In the list of the published and unpublished Samhitās, a special 'Status' column has also been added to provide details. In the list of the published section provide details about the author, edition, script, publisher, publishing house and year of publication of each Samhitā. This has been composed in English so that scholars can easily retrieve information and understand the content of individual publications.

For unpublished Samhitās, the presentation takes a slightly different arrangement. Minor details such as where the unpublished Samhitā is currently stored, its script, and its format (i.e. paper or palm-leaf) have been noted wherever possible. Entire texts or chapters are not available for some Samhitās, however these Samhitās have been referenced in many verses of other manuscripts. The name and page number of those manuscripts have been provided to further aid the research process of future scholars. (For example, Bhāradvāj Samhitā, Adayār TR. 569, 'Utsava Samgraha' pp. 1158)

For several Samhitās, only a few chapters or verses are available – or perhaps only a passing reference quoted by an āchārya. For the benefit of future referral, the reference author, the text and the page number have been included.

Regardless of whether a Samhitā is published or unpublished, either complete or incomplete – a definite or even most probable number of chapters and verses has been provided. This will allow readers to infer the volume of the reference text or manuscript.

SPECIAL FEATURES OF THE SAMHITĀ CATALOGUE

The historicity, content-value and acceptability of a Samhitā can be deduced by investigating its subjects, format, context of references and literary style. Thus this information has been provided in a section titled 'Historical Order'.

A special effort has been made to sort the Samhitās into the following five categories:

- 1) Widely-accepted Ancient Samhitās: Samhitās that have been written at the dawn of the Sampradāya, between the 4th and 7th centuries.
- 2) Middle-aged Samhitās: Samhitās written after the dawn of the Sampradāya, i.e. prior to Yāmunāchārya and Rāmānujāchārya, between the 8th and 9th centuries.
- 3) Middle-aged to Contemporary Samhitās: Samhitās written approximately before the 13th century, which were referenced by scholars such as Vedānt Deshik in their works.
- 4) Contemporary Samhitās: Samhitās written after the collaboration of the Pañcharātra Sampradāya with the Vishishtādvaita School, i.e. before the 15th century. These Samhitās expound many subjects of the Vishishtādvaita doctrine – such as the Vadgalai and Tengalai distinctions.
- 5) Non-Pañcharātra Samhitās: Samhitās that do not tally with – or perhaps even contradict – the philosophy of the main stream Pañcharātra School. Nevertheless, some sort of reference within the text or the colophon – such as "This Samhitā belongs to Pañcharātra principles" – can be traced. It is understood that these Samhitās may have been composed keeping a few specific Vaishnava Sampradāyas in mind.

It is hoped that this form of categorisation will be extremely useful to future scholars. It will allow readers to immediately identify the usefulness and timescale of the individual Samhitās. A separate list of Samhitā names has also been included in the Appendix in chronological order.

In this way, an effort has been made to produce a comprehensive list of Pañcharātra Samhitās based upon the commendable efforts of scholars from earlier in this century. This, by no means, is a conclusive piece of work though; there still remains plenty of scope for far more research.

Schrader mentions both ‘Nārada’ and ‘Nāradiya’. The Nāradiya Samhitā from Dharma Śāstra, Jyotisha Śāstra (Astrology) and Shaivgām is different from the Pāñcarātra Samhitā. The Nāradiya Samhitā was published in 1878 and 1905 by Kashi Sanskrit Press, Banaras. The Nāradiya Samhitā from the Dharma Śāstra was published in 1915 from Calcutta. Further, in Śaivāgama’s ‘Mahāsiddhisara Tantra’ serial no. 23 of the Rathakrāntā catalogue it is referred to as Nāradiya.

Remarks ◆ The same scholar (Śrī Govindācārya) is the editor of both the publications published in the same year, 1953, from quite adjacent cities. Hence, some doubts persist as to whether both the publications are the same, and whether the printing press operates under two different names. As long as both the volumes are not available, these doubts can not be set aside. The above note therefore, includes both the versions, with the hope that researchers in future will give the correct picture. According to the scholar Śrīkaṅthī, the 'Pārameśvara Tantra' included in 18 Rudrāgama is not related to Pāñcarātra, but belongs to Viraśaiva sampradāya. The reference of Viraśaiva's Pārameśvara Tantra is found in the 'Niḥiṣvāsa Tantrasamhitā' in the Nepal State (Darbāra) Library.

Remarks ◆ Schrader mentions both 'Brahma' and 'Brāhma'. The present 'Brahma Samhitā' is available in only the fifth chapter. The subject matter suggests that it does not pertain to Pāñcarātra. However, a final decision can only be arrived at after tracing the remaining 99 chapters. The 'Hindi Tātparyavyākhyā' appearing in the 1988 publication of the samhitā is based on the English translation and commentary by Sreemad Bhaktisiddhant Saraswati Goswami Prabhu.

Remarks ♦

Sanatkumāra Saṁhitā, published by Narayan Press, Calcutta in 1890, gives an account of a dialogue between Sanatkumāra and Pulastya, describing at length the worship of Kṛṣṇa. It is, however, a Vaiṣṇava scripture, and can not be classified as a Pāñcarātra Saṁhitā because one can't find any traces of Pāñcarātra content in it. Besides this, in the serial no. 60 of Todalottara Tantra, an extract from Sarvollāsatantra of Śaivāgama and serial no 60 of Vishnukrantā of Mahāsiddhisara Tantra refers to Sanatkumāra of Śaivāgam. This is also not a Pāñcarātra Saṁhitā.

◆ Schrader mentions both 'Agastya' and 'Āgastya'. Agastya's name is associated with Ayurvedic medicine, Mantra, Āgama, Tamil grammar and other scriptures. The subject matter, discussion, number of chapters and ślokas in Agastya Saṁhitā-2 are different from Agastya Saṁhitā-1. The Agastya Saṁhitā-1 is in consonance with the Pāñcarātra tradition.

Remarks

- ◆ The (handwritten) manuscript is divided into paricchēdas (chapters), is a Vaiṣṇava scripture. The study of its contents and style reveals that it does not appear to be a Pāñcarātra scripture. Apte and Schrader show it as both 'Jñānarṇava' and 'Jñānasāgara.' Śāktatantras, Śaivāgamas and Jaināgamas also have texts with the title of Jñānarṇava Tantra. Pāñcarātra's Jñānarṇava Tantra deserves a deeper study.
- ◆ अयं परिच्छेदेन विभक्तो वैष्णवग्रन्थः । ग्रन्थकर्ता अभयप्रदराज इति, तत्पिता च रङ्गराजयज्वा इति । विषयशैल्यादिनिरीक्षणेनायं ग्रन्थः पाञ्चरात्रिको नैव प्रतिभाति । आप्टेसूचौ श्रेडरसूचौ च 'ज्ञानार्णव' 'ज्ञानसागर' इत्युभयमस्ति । ज्ञानार्णवतन्त्रनाम्ना शाक्त-शैव-जैनागमेष्वपि ग्रन्थाः सन्ति । पाञ्चरात्रिको ज्ञानार्णवसंहितात्मको ग्रन्थः परिशीलनीयः ।

- ◆ Schrader mentions both 'Nārāyaṇa' and 'Nārāyaṇīya'. Krishnamacharya mentions 'Nārāyaṇa Tantram'. The style of the available fragments of this saṁhitā is different from that of the published Śrīmanṇa Nārāyaṇa Saṁhitā-1. Nārāyaṇa Saṁhitā-1 mainly deals with yajna-mantra and the rewards of mantra. However, the fragments of the present saṁhitā predominantly are on the rites of worship.

Daniel Smith, as mentioned in SASMP, Pādmāsamhitā Tantra may not be therefore; a single samhitā, but may be a collection of handwritten manuscripts. Hence, it is difficult to count the exact number of ślokas and adhyāyas (chapters).

- Remarks ♦ According to H. Daniel Smith this saṁhitā is, probably, the 34th chapter of the published Puruṣottama Saṁhitā. As the characteristics of Astramudrā, Vanamālāmudrā, Anantamudrā and many other mudrās are different in the two saṁhitās it does not seem proper to link this Puruṣottama Saṁhitā with the 34th chapter of the published Puruṣottama Saṁhitā- 1. In other words, this handwritten ‘Puruṣottama Saṁhitā’ is different from the printed version.

It is divided into four parts, namely: Jñāna, Yoga, Kriyā and Caryā. Yogapāda and Kriyāpāda are also known as ‘Sarvajñānottara and Caryāpād is renamed as ‘Mātāṅgapārameśwara’. The present samhitā comes in the period later than Pauškara Samhitā-1- a part of ‘Ratnatraya’, as is apparent from referenc to the words like ‘Mūla Bera’ etc. It is, however, not very recent, but can be placed in th middle period.

- ◆ In Vāsiṣṭha Saṁhitā of source no.1, there are 1 to 24 'patalas'(chapters). There is one 'patala' each in Vāsiṣṭha Saṁhitās given in sources no. 2 to 7. They are respectively 12, 13, 25, 28, 32 and 34. Excepting patala 32, the rest are included from 'patala' 1 to 24 in Vāsiṣṭha Saṁhitā's, mentioned in source -1. 'Patalas' 12, 23, 25, 28 and 34 of Vāsiṣṭha Saṁhitās' source no.2 to 7, are respectively patalas no. 12, 23, 22, 24 and 21 of source -1's Vāsiṣṭha Saṁhitā. Remarks	◆	According to H. Daniel Smith, this fragment, in all probability, is linked with chapters 12,13 or 14 of Viṣṇutattva Samhitā-1, as given on p.119 of SASM. The study of the text, however, does not confirm this view. The subject matter of the present fragment is different from Viṣṇutattva Samhitā-1.

Remarks

- ◆ This saṁhitā is found with the title 'Śukrapraśna' in source -2 and with the title Śukapraśna Saṁhitā' in source-1. Both of them are the 36th chapter of the same saṁhitā. Both the saṁhitās, barring some minor changes, are common and have their place among the saṁhitās with the title of 'Śukapraśna'. Hence, 'Sukrapraśna' is kept here as the title. The letters 'Kra' (instead of 'Ka') seem to be a lapse on the part of the scribe in the name 'Sukrapraśna Saṁhitā'.

Remarks

◆ Venkatacharya, at both sr.no. 258 and 259, shows Saṅkarṣaṇa Samhitā. The two-arm description of God indicates that Saṅkarṣaṇa Samhitā is as old as Sātvata Smhitā. The extracts given in Spandapradīpikā are proof of its 'earlier' origin. The word 'Saṅkarṣaṇa Sūtra' appears in Spandapradīpikā. A doubt, therefore, persists, whether the extracts are from the same 'Saṅkarṣaṇa Samhitā'.

- Remarks
- ◆ Sanatkumār Saṁhitā published by Narayan Press, Calcutta, in 1890. gives an account of a dialogue between Sanatkumār and Pulastya, describing at length the worship of Kṛṣṇa. It is, however, a Vaiṣṇava scripture, and cannot be classified as a Pāñcarātra Saṁhitā. At sr. no. 60 of Todalottar Tantra, an extract from Sarvollāsatantra of Śaivāgama and sr. no. 60 of Viṣṇukrāntā of Mahāsiddhisāra Tantra refers to Sanatkumāra of Śaivāgama. This is also not a Pāñcarātra Saṁhitā. It can be placed in the post-Sanatkumāra Saṁhitā-1 period and appears to be different from it, for the following reasons :-
 1. In Sanatkumāra Saṁhitā-1 there is no clear dialogue between the narrator and the listener. But in certain pieces (printed Utsavaśaṅgraha pp.77-80) of the present saṁhitā, the dialogue between Sanatkumāra and Nārada is reproduced.
 2. There is a difference in colophons of the two saṁhitās.
 3. Saṁhitā-1 is divided into 'Rtras' and 'Adhyāyas' (chapters) whereas Saṁhitā-2 (unpublished Utsavaśaṅgraha part -2, p.1209) is divided into 'patala'(chapter).
 4. The subject matter of all the pieces appear to be of a 'later' period.

Remarks

- ◆ There is also another book by the name of 'Sātvata Tantram' that is based on the Śrīmaḥ Bhāgawata. It is not Pāñcarātra-related but a Vaiṣṇava Saṁhitā . The prologue mentions it to be different from Sātvata Saṁhitā and is the source of Śrīmad Bhāgawata. It was published in 1934 by the Chaukhambha Sanskrit Series publishers. The present Saṁhitā comes in the later period than Sātvata Saṁhitā 1- a part of 'Ratnatraya'.

Remarks	◆ Venkatacharya finds support for the present samhitā in sr. no. 34 in the list of 'Puruṣottam Samhitā'. But against this number, 'Maudgalam' is mentioned. Hence, the given authority seems debateable. In venkatacharya's List at no. 174 'Maudgala Samhitā is mentioned separately. Hence it is not appropriate to understand the 'Madgala Samhitā mentioned here to be the same as the 'Maudgala Samhitā Listed at no. 174. ◆ वेङ्कटाचार्येणाऽस्याः संहिताया आधारः पुरुषोत्तमसंहितायाः नामावल्यां ३४ तमे क्रमाङ्के कथितः। अस्मिन् क्रमाङ्के तु 'मौद्गलम्' इति निर्देशः वर्तते। अतः मद्गलसंहितायाः आधारः चिन्त्यः। वेङ्कटाचार्यसूचौ १७४ तमे क्रमाङ्के निर्दिष्टा 'मौद्गलसंहिता' त्वपरा। अतः 'मद्गलसंहिता' एव मौद्गलसंहिता इत्युक्तं प्रतिभाति।

APPENDIX-1 HISTORICAL ORDER

The historicity, content-value and acceptability of a Samhitā can be deduced by investigating its subjects, format, context of references and literary style. Thus this information has been provided in a section titled 'Historical Order'.

A special effort has been made to sort the Samhitās into the following five categories:

- 1) Widely-accepted Ancient Samhitās: Samhitās that have been written at the dawn of the Sampradāya, between the 4th and 7th centuries.
- 2) Middle-aged Samhitās: Samhitās written after the dawn of the Sampradāya, i.e. prior to Yāmūnāchārya and Rāmānujāchārya, between the 8th and 9th centuries.
- 3) Middle-aged to Contemporary Samhitās: Samhitās written approximately before the 13th century, which were referenced by scholars such as Vedānt Deshik in their works.
- 4) Contemporary Samhitās: Samhitās written after the collaboration of the Pancharātra Sampradāya with the Vishishtādvaita School, i.e. before the 15th century. These Samhitās expound many subjects of the Vishishtādvaita doctrine – such as the Vadgalai and Tengalai distinctions.
- 5) Non-Pancharātra Samhitās: Samhitās that do not tally with – or perhaps even contradict – the philosophy of the main stream Pancharātra School. Nevertheless, some sort of reference within the text or the colophon – such as “This Samhitā belongs to Pancharātra principles” – can be traced. It is understood that these Samhitās may have been composed keeping a few specific Vaishnava Sampradāyas in mind.

INSPIRER: PRAMUKH SWAMI MAHARAJ

“In the good of others lies our own...”

This maxim by Pramukh Swami Maharaj is not only an inspiring call for all humanity, but also reflects the spirit of his services to man and society. Acclaimed as a unique and rare holy soul of India, Pramukh Swami Maharaj was born on 7 December 1921CE in the village of Chansad, Gujarat. He is the fifth successor in the illustrious spiritual tradition of Bhagwan Swaminarayan. He is the embodiment of the universal Hindu ideals in all its pristine glory.

In his presence doubts dissolve, confusions clear, hurts heal and the mind finds peace. His selfless love equally soothes and blesses children, youths and seniors; regardless of caste, creed or status.

As the guiding light of the Bochasanwasi Shri Akshar Purushottam Swaminarayan Sanstha (BAPS), Swamishri has inspired character in countless people, thus creating a morally sound community.

Out of his compassion for humanity, he has visited over 15,500 villages and cities, sanctified over 250,000 homes and written 500,000 letters. He has ushered a cultural, moral and spiritual renaissance in India and abroad by establishing over 410 mandirs. His divine humanism has provided succour to countless souls in times of natural catastrophe and need.

His striking humility, simplicity and spiritualism have impressed many religious and national leaders. And above all, his profound experience and realisation of God is the essence of his success and divine lustre.
